Pueblo Case Before U.N.

By CHARLES STORER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States carried its quest for a peaceful solution to the Pueblo crisis to the U.N. Security Council today. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said the aim was the immediate return of the ship and its crew from captivity in North Korea.

North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung is pictured as feeling new war with U.S. is inevitable. This view and a report on sources saying Pueblo's crew blew up coding machine before capture are found on Page 20.

Goldberg requested an urgent meeting of the council after a day of talks in Washington Thursday with President Johnson and other high government officials.

The council president for January, Ambassador Agha Shahi of Pakistan, set the meeting for 3:30 p.m. He had conferred until 3:30 a.m. with representatives of the 14 other council members to determine if they would agree to a meeting.

Diplomats said Goldberg had let it be known he would not oppose an invitation to North Korea to participate in the debate. Neither North Korea nor South Korea is a U.N. member, but South Korea maintains an observer mission here.

Goldberg, in his request for the council meeting, charged that "a grave threat to peace" had arisen from "a series of increasingly dangerous and aggressive military actions by North Korean authorities."

Goldberg told newsmen that "obviously the main purpose of this recourse to the Security Council is to see to it that the ship and crew are returned."

Another major objective, he said, is to obtain compliance with the Korean armistice agreement "so that acts of terrorism such as have been taking place will cease."

Some diplomats felt the U.S. move to the Security Council opened the way to a field day for Communist propagandists. They predicted heavy attacks on the United States over the war in Vietnam and a renewal of long-standing Communist demands for the withdrawal of all foreign troops from South Korea.

In the annual debates on the Korean question in the U.N. General Assembly, the Communists also call regularly for the dissolution of the U.N. Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea (UNCURK), but their efforts have always been defeated.

3 Area Reservists Answer President's Call

By HUGH REYNOLDS
and

Three members of the U.S. Air Force from the Kingston area, were among the first of the 904th Military Airlift Wing to report at Stewart Air Force Base in Newburgh, for active duty after President Johnson called 14,787 Air Force and Navy Reservists to active duty.

The reserve call-up was the first since the Cuban missile confrontation of 1962 and involved 787 more men than the limited mobilization in that crisis.

Two From Saugerties

The three from this area, who had reported before 11 a. m. today, were Major John Kerns of Glenrie Lake, operations officer for the 904th MAW; Major John Tompkins, pilot, of Saugerties, and Leopold Klemke, enlisted man, also of Saugerties, who is a flight engineer with the unit.

Approximately 1,000 men are assigned to the 904th, and a Freeman reporter at Stewart Field reported at 11 a. m. today, that as of that hour, 125 men had checked in at the base for active duty. The deadline for reporting is midnight.

Asked by the reporter when the unit will be operational, Major Kerns replied, "We'll be ready to go at midnight."

The last time the 904th unit was called for active duty was during the Korean crisis. Kerns said, the reservists called for active duty will serve "up to 24 months." It could be less time.

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces killed 18 Americans and wounded 138 others in a rash of attacks up and down South Vietnam in the 36 hours before the start tonight of a cease-fire proclaimed by the Viet Cong for the lunar new year festival.

The targets of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese included a U. S. Marine convoy which was ambushed just below the demilitarized zone.

But at Khe Sanh, the Marine outpost in the northwest corner of the country where U.S. commanders believe the biggest Red offensive of the war is being readied, the U.S. Command said action was "limited to sporadic mortar and artillery duels."

Communists forces were scheduled to start a seven-day truce at 1 a. m. Saigon time Saturday, or noon EST Friday. The allies have announced their cease-fire for Tet, the new year festival, will run for only 36 hours, from 6 p. m. Monday to 6 a. m. Wednesday.

Reds Zero In

In one of the Communist attacks Thursday night, on the Lai Khe base where the U.S. 1st Infantry Division has its headquarters 19 miles north of Saigon, Communist troops crept to within striking distance of the officers' club, then zeroed in with grenades fired from bazookas.

The roof of the club, crashed down, killing five Army officers, an American Red Cross man, two American construction men and an 18-year-old Vietnamese girl who worked in the club. Another 21 Army men, most of them officers, were wounded.

Communist troops and demolition squads slipped into the An Khe and Holloway airfields 50 miles apart in the central highlands before dawn under the cover of mortar fire.

At An Khe they damaged at least one $2.5 million C130 cargo plane, an Army helicopter, two fire trucks and a jeep. Two U.S. and 13 Communist troops were killed and 11 U.S. troops wounded in exchanges of fire.

Only light damage was reported at Holloway, an airstrip used by Army helicopters and light planes. Twenty Americans were wounded, but enemy casualties were not known.

Near the Cambodian border to the north of Lai Khe Communist gunners slammed 25 mortar rounds into a patrol base of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division, killing three infantrymen and wounding another 30.

Wound 10 Marines

In the northern 1st Corps Area, enemy gunners lobbed 50 mortar rounds onto an artillery unit at Phu Bai, headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division. The Communist forces tried a ground attack at the same time, but the artillerymen drove them back with small arms and machine-guns. Ten Marines were wounded, and enemy casualties were not known.

The Marine convoy was ambushed Thursday 17 miles northeast of Khe Sanh. Eight Marines were killed, 44 were wounded, and the Leathernecks counted only three enemy bodies.

A U.S. spokesman said only 22 artillery and mortar rounds were fired at Marine forces in the Khe Sanh area Thursday, and only one Marine was wounded.

But during the lull C130 cargo planes and helicopters rushed in ammunition, food and fuel to build up the Marines' supplies against the expected enemy offensive. Troops of at least two North Vietnamese divisions are to the west and south of Khe Sanh, and a major attack could come any time.

From North Vietnamese

Marines Describe A Great Escape

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — After two weeks in North Vietnamese captivity, two young U.S. Marines tiptoed past a dozing guard and raced barefoot through the jungle to safety.

Cpl. Steven D. Nelson, 19, of Elkhart, Ind., and Lance Cpl. Michael Robert Roha, 20, of National City, Calif., were in excellent shape when they reached U.S. Marine positions Tuesday, two days after their escape. Now they are going home to duty in the United States, 10½ months early for Roha, nine months for Nelson.

Nelson's family was notified Jan. 9 that he was killed in action. They were notified that he was safe as soon as he returned. Nelson said the report he was killed was based on a wrong identification of a body by a Marine buddy.

They were with a Marine pacification team in the hamlet of Chua Luu, about 17 miles northwest of Da Nang, when about 200 North Vietnamese attacked their outpost Jan. 7. Of the 17 Marines and 29 Vietnamese militiamen there, seven Leather-necks were killed and all the rest, except Roha and Nelson, were wounded.

Nelson, wearing only his undershorts, was grabbed by six North Vietnamese when he ran to the main bunker to try to call for help, found the bunker in flames and ran out.

"It was like I had the ball and they tackled me," he said. "Two of them jumped up on my shoulders, another had hold of my legs," he said.

Roha saw a wounded Marine and ran for a medic, not realizing that the North Vietnamese had taken the outpost.

"The first thing I saw were several Vietnamese motioning to me," Roha said. "I thought they were our militia wanting to give up. I said 'no, no' and ran right on by them. They were NVA (North Vietnamese army). I guess I stunned them as much as they stunned me. About 15 yards farther on an NVA jumped and pushed a pistol into my stomach."

Neither man had boots on and in a few hours their feet were bleeding as they followed a trail into the mountains. They were given sandals, fresh trousers and shirts. When they stumbled their captors helped them to their feet. The next day, the men were in a company-size base camp, in a bomb shelter in which they could stand nearly erect.

Each day they would emerge through the shelter opening in the floor of a thatched hut and sit on a crude bench. Soldiers and several women in the camp would come to look at them. Occasionally, the soldiers would show them snapshots of their families.

At no time were the Marines roughly handled, they said. They were given three meals each day—rice, fish, a tin of herring, tea and plenty of drinking water.

A medical officer gave them vitamins. An officer who spoke poor English tried to interrogate them once, but they said they only gave their names, ranks and serial numbers.

Last Sunday, Nelson popped up through the hole in the floor and tiptoed past a dozing guard. Roha followed and was next to the hammock when the guard opened his eyes for a second, then dozed off again.

"My heart stopped beating, said Roha. "I almost stumbled from being so scared."

There were two rifles in the hut, but the Leathernecks left them behind.

"They never really checked our hole in the afternoon," Nelson said. "If we took the rifles, they would have known immediately that we were gone."

The Marines raced into the tangled jungle.

"We must have run as fast as we could for 2,000 yards," Nelson said.

They made for the populous coastal plain to the east. That night they lay down in a nest of rocks but barely slept. At dawn they were moving along a trail and heard Vietnamese voices 10 yards to one side. They ran back up the trail 200 yards and waited for an hour. Then they followed a stream bed, and at one point crawled about 3,000 yards through the undergrowth.

They thought their escape route covered about seven miles. About 11 a. m. Tuesday they came over a small knoll and saw the tents of 5th Marine Regiment unit.

The first Marines they saw were bathing in a stream.

"Where were you guys?" One of the bathers asked the barefoot men with two-week beards.

"Oh, in the mountains for a little r-and-r (rest and recreation)," Roha cracked.

"They just kept staring at us," he said.

At the command post, "I wanted to cry my head off since the tension was over," Roha said.

In Elkhart, Nelson's father said when word came that Steve was all right, "I almost bawled. Of course my wife was in tears and has been almost ever since."

Also home to receive the good news was Steve's older brother, Marine Sgt. Willard Gene, 29, who was wounded in Vietnam a year ago.

At Roha's home, his mother told newsmen: "We had faith that Mike would be all right. He's always been the last one home."

"We'll have the biggest turnkey he's ever seen," she added.

Airmen Get Ready, The Talks Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 14,800 air reservists prepared to muster for indefinite active duty as the United States pushed along diplomatic paths to a possible bloodless settlement of the Pueblo crisis.

President Johnson's approach obviously was to couple an air of determination with a readiness to use diplomacy in gaining release from Communist North Korea of the captured U. S. Navy intelligence ship and the 83 Americans aboard.

The diplomatic paths included an urgent session of the 15-nation U.N. Security Council to consider what U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg called a "grave threat to peace."

What will happen if diplomatic means should fail remained very much in doubt.

The call-up of 14,787 Air National Guardsmen, Air Force

Reservists and Naval Air Reservists will serve to give the United States a little more airpower at a time when pilot and plane resources are spread thin because of the Vietnam war.

The men tapped by the call-up have no way of knowing how long they will serve. Johnson has the authority to keep the reservists in uniform for up to two years.

This was the third reserve call-up since 1961. The partial mobilization during that year's Berlin crisis took about 148,000 Army and Air Guardsmen, Air Force Reservists and Naval Reservists. They were on duty about 10 months.

About 14,000 Air Force Reservists in troop-carrier outfits were placed on active duty for a modern, month during the 1962 Cuban missile crisis.

Wall Street experienced a strong rally Thursday in part because of the limited scope of the muster and in part because of an unfounded rumor that the Pueblo had been freed.

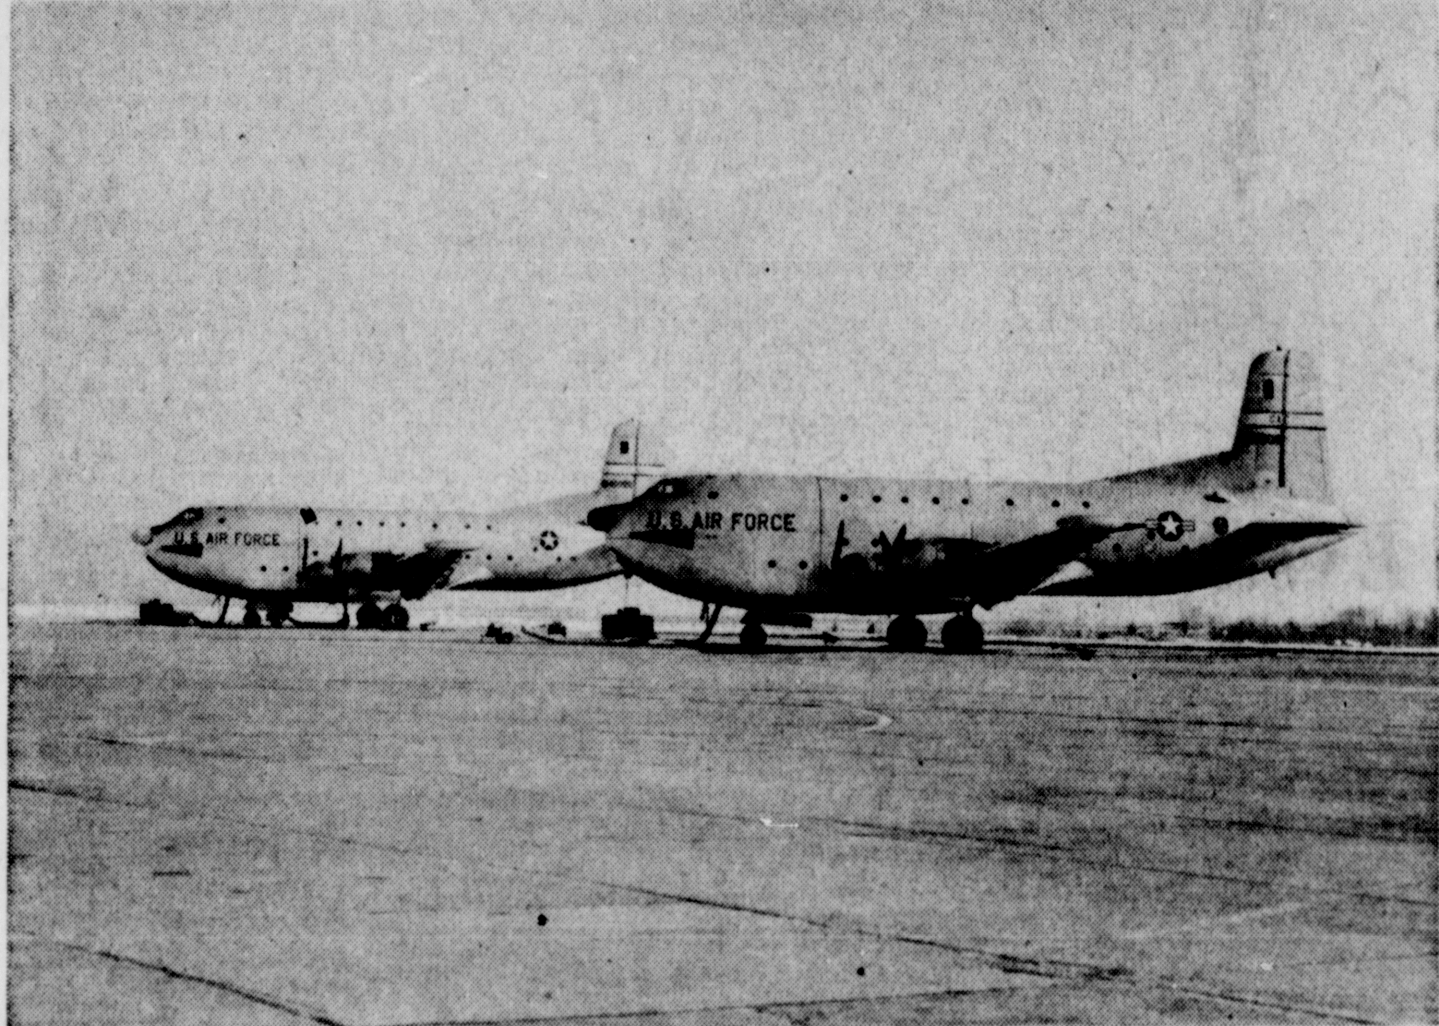

Current plans are to keep the air reservists at their home bases. That means some may be able to go home nights.

Sources said they expect the air reservists to function as back-up for overseas forces, possibly including additional regular flying units that may be moved out into the Pacific, closer to the scene of the latest crisis.

For the most part, the Air Guard and Air Reserve planes are old models. The Naval Reserve aircraft are a bit more modern.

Front elevation of typical building in proposed garden apartment complex.

Off Fairview Avenue

152-Unit Garden Apartment Complex Eyed

A 152-unit garden apartment complex will be constructed on a 6.4 acre plot off Fairview Avenue at an average investment of $10,000 per unit, when a zoning change is approved.

The plans call for 104 one-bedroom apartments and 48 two-bedroom apartments in 12 Colonial style, two-story buildings.

An unusual feature of the complex is the fact that the center portion of the plot will be reserved for parking for apartment residents. This parking area will be screened by a decorative block wall and evergreen plantings. The buildings grouped around it will be set off with lawns and plantings, presenting an attractive street frontage.

3-Stage Construction

Rentals will range from $135 to $175 per month.

Construction is planned in three stages, with approximately 50 units to be completed and rented before the ensuing phase is begun.

Three vehicular exits from the apartment complex will be provided, two of them onto Fairview Avenue and the third to Merritt Avenue.

The garden apartment owners will be responsible for garbage removal, and street maintenance, including snow removal.

on the streets to be constructed within the apartment area.

The developer is Louis J. Hess of River Edge, N. J., who currently holds an option on the property. Builder will be Dominick Ruta, who has built approximately 1,000 homes in towns such as Teaneck, Ridgewood, Tenafly, Oradell, Bergenfield, Haworth, Closter and Old Tappan. He has also constructed office buildings in New Milford and apartments in Teaneck and Oradell. He has announced his intention to deal with Kingston area suppliers and use local workers in the project.

$300 Tax Return

The land is presently vacant, bringing total tax revenue to the city and the school district of approximately $300 a year. By the time the construction is completed, tax revenue from the parcel is expected to increase to at least 75 times that much.

A survey completed for Hess prior to his decision to invest in Kingston indicated a need for at least 1,000 additional apartment units in this area.

Harold W. O'Connor, a qualified appraiser and member of the real estate firm of O'Connor and Fox, noted that there were waiting lists at all other quality garden apartment developments. The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce also reports frequent inquiries about availability of modern apartments in the greater Kingston area.

Planners Approve

O'Connor has also pointed out that the city's present zoning ordinance makes no provision, outside the urban renewal projects, for garden apartments which are necessary today to attract skilled workers and technicians needed badly by local industry. The project has received the approval of the city Planning Board.

A survey of other quality garden apartment developments in the greater Kingston area has shown that nearby property values have increased. These existing installations include Sunset Garden Apartments, Skytop Apartments, Hurley Ridge, Chestnut Street Apartments, Millers Lane Apartments, all in the Kingston area and Simmons Apartments at Saugerties.

Higher Cost of Living Causing Great Concern

BY NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs, climbing at a 10-year record pace and more than wiping out wage gains of many Americans, are causing White House concern in this election year.

For all Americans, a White House source said Thursday, the rising prices mean "you've got trouble and it's not on the horizon, it's all around you."

3.1 Increase

The Labor Department reported Thursday living costs rose 3.1 per cent in 1967.

"Not only are they clipping along, but at an accelerated rate," the White House source said of steadily climbing costs of food, clothing, housing, transportation and medical care.

The price hikes in the final quarter of 1967 would add up to an annual rate of 3.5 per cent if they continued this year, said Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

And, Chase said, "It looks as if the trend would continue." "Almost everything went up in December except automobiles and gasoline," Chase said in reporting final 1967 figures.

The Consumer Price Index in December showed its third straight monthly rise of three-tenths of one per cent and wound up the year at 118.2.

This means it cost $11.82 last month for every $10 worth of typical family goods and services in the 1957-59 period which the government uses as a base for measuring the rise in living costs.

Wawarsing Appoints Marl

The Wawarsing Town Board held a special meeting last night to appoint a superintendent of Highways.

Named to the post, by a vote of 4 to 1, was Clifford Marl of Cragmoor.

Marl lost a previous election to the post by 124 votes.

The superintendent's position was vacated through the death of Harry Decker of Ellenville.

Marl will serve only until November when another election will be held.

In other terms, the 1957-59 dollar sustained a loss of 15.4 cents over the past 10 years.

Some 45 million workers—60 per cent of the nation's workforce—lost 7 cents a week in purchasing power over the past year despite wage gains of $3.28 to an average of $103.25 a week.

President Johnson, in his State of the Union speech earlier this month, warned of "an accelerating spiral of price increases, a slump in home building and a continuing erosion of the American dollar." If Congress doesn't enact his proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Equally worrisome to government economists is a rapid rise in wholesale prices of industrial raw materials such as lumber, metals and textiles, which remained virtually stable the first half of 1967 but jumped 1.3 per cent in the last five months of the year.

Food Prices Rise

Food prices, the most stable item in living costs in 1967, rose a comparatively slight three-tenths of one per cent. But a wholesale jump of 2.8 per cent in farm prices and 1 per cent in processed foods in December and January indicate higher grocery costs, particularly for fruits and vegetables.

The bureau reported grocery prices up five-tenths of 1 per cent in December and up three-tenths of 1 per cent over the year; housing up four-tenths of 1 per cent last month and 2.7 per cent over the year; clothing up two-tenths of 1 per cent in December and 4 per cent over the year.

Transportation prices dropped three-tenths of 1 per cent in December because of gasoline price wars and lower prices for new and used cars, but rose 3.6 per cent over the year.

Medical costs, the highest and consistently the fastest-rising price category, went up five-tenths of 1 per cent in December and were 6.4 per cent above December 1966. Medical care services, chiefly doctors' and dentists' fees, rose 7.9 per cent in 1967.

Kings Daughters Plan Two Events

Kings Daughters Society of Shady met recently at the home of Mrs. Adam Thiel in Willow.

Air Force officers noted that the 904th flies 8-C-124 Globemasters, one of the largest cargo planes in the Air Force. The 904th has flown overseas regularly including trips to Vietnam and Panama. It recently passed an operational readiness inspection, indicating that it is on combat ready status.

Official Statement

An official statement released to a reporter for the Freeman today reads:

"The 904th Military Airlift group received official notification late last night that it has been placed on active duty status. All unit members except those belonging to the 72nd Aero-Medical Evacuation Flight, are to report to Stewart Air Force Base by midnight tonight.

"Those who fail to report will be placed on delinquent status and will be subject to disciplinary action. For the time being the unit will remain at Stewart and will continue to carry out its mission of airlifting troops, cargo and supplies."

A commanding officer of the 904th is Lieut. Col. Harry Amundur of Long Island. He has held the office for a year.

The 904th meets regularly once a month; however many of its members report at the air force base in their spare time to maintain ready status.

Prime Candidates

Major Kerns explained that the members of the 904th unit are prime candidates for recall.

An unidentified officer commented to a reporter about the present Korean crisis, "I guess the Navy can't take care of one little boat so they had to call in the Air Force."

The 904th Globemaster transports are huge four-engine, propeller-driven planes capable of carrying troops or cargo. The unit on previous occasions has flown numerous airlift missions to many parts of the world.

Saugerties Snow Drifters Elect Officers

Saugerties Snow Drifters, a snowmobile club, was formed Jan. 13.

Elected to serve as officers were: Robert Lewis, president; Floyd Curry, vice-president; Mary Lou Lewis, secretary; Judy Stoly, treasurer.

Following the meeting, members took part in a cross country ride from Malden to Saugerties and back. A second cross country trip took members from Malden to West Camp where a hot was spent chasing two wild fox from field to field until they disappeared into the woods.

On Sunday, Jan. 20, the club held events on Mike Crout Road.

Mass. Trucker Found Dead

A 27-year-old Massachusetts truck driver, making a delivery of hamburger meat, to Donald M. Swan cold storage and ice company, was found dead this morning beside his truck outside the Albany Avenue storage firm.

Kingston city police identified the man as Raymond H. Westgate, of 127 Hartford Avenue, Hopdale, Mass. He had apparently driven down from Syracuse last night and remained in his truck throughout a part of the night with the motor running.

According to Donald Swan, owner of the storage company, MacDonald's Hamburgers Company requested 25 60-pound boxes of hamburger meat, which was to be stored in Swan's freezers until needed.

Westgate drove down from Syracuse to make the delivery, apparently arrived at the storage house before it opened, which, according to Swan, was "not unusual," and waited in the truck.

He had been seen moving about in the truck at about 8 a. m. Westgate then got out of the truck and sat on the running board.

The driver then toppled in the snow at around 8:30 and Kingston police came to investigate. Ulster County Coroner William Keyser rushed to the scene, the man was pronounced dead, and his body was taken to the Kingston Hospital morgue for an autopsy.

A police spokesman said that the cause of death was "probably caused by carbon monoxide poisoning."

Bay Stater Held After Greene Mishap

A Massachusetts man was arrested early today by Leeds State Police on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident after his car was involved in a collision at the intersection of Routes 23 and Route 9W near Catskill.

Troopers said Christian Hanna of Tyngsboro was apprehended about a half mile from the scene of the mishap which occurred at 12:05 a. m. and involved a car owned by Barney Hotelling, 63, of Catskill, and a tractor-trailer operated by Floyd Wetmore, 43, also of Catskill.

According to troopers, Hotelling and Wetmore were both stopped for a red traffic light at the intersection when the south-bound car driven by Hanna hit Hotelling's car and pushed it into the rear of the truck. Troopers said Hanna apparently fell asleep and failed to stop after the collision.

Hotelling complained of chest pains. He was treated at Greene County Memorial Hospital and later released.

Punctured Tires In Newburgh May Be Solved

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Three Boys, two 15 and one 12, were seized Thursday and accused of puncturing school-bus tires last Monday, necessitating canceling of classes on that day.

State police said that the juveniles, all charged with malicious mischief, would appear at a later date in Juvenile Court. No names were released because of their ages.

Drivers reporting to work Monday at the terminal of the Newburgh-Beacon Bus Co. found the tires punctured on all 22 buses. Some 2,500 pupils were affected by the school cancellation.

Off Fairview Avenue

152-Unit Garden Apartment Complex Eyed

A 152-unit garden apartment complex will be constructed on a 6.4 acre plot off Fairview Avenue at an average investment of $10,000 per unit, when a zoning change is approved.

The plans call for 104 one-bedroom apartments and 48 two-bedroom apartments in 12 Colonial style, two-story buildings.

An unusual feature of the complex is the fact that the center portion of the plot will be reserved for parking for apartment residents. This parking area will be screened by a decorative block wall and evergreen plantings. The buildings grouped around it will be set off with lawns and plantings, presenting an attractive street frontage.

3-Stage Construction
Rentals will range from $135 to $175 per month.

Construction is planned in three stages, with approximately 50 units to be completed and rented before the ensuing phase is begun.

Three vehicular exits from the apartment complex will be provided, two of them onto Fairview Avenue and the third to Merritt Avenue.

The garden apartment owners will be responsible for garbage removal, and street maintenance, including snow removal.

on the streets to be constructed within the apartment area.

The developer is Louis J. Hess of River Edge, N. J., who currently holds an option on the property. Builder will be Dominick Ruta, who has built approximately 1,000 homes in towns such as Teaneck, Ridgewood, Tenafly, Oradell, Bergenfield, Haworth, Closter and Old Tappan. He has also constructed office buildings in New Milford and apartments in Teaneck and Oradell. He has announced his intention to deal with Kingston area suppliers and use local workers in the project.

Architect is Peter H. Butler of Teaneck, with Fred P. Butler, associate.

$300 Tax Return

The land is presently vacant, bringing total tax revenue to the city and the school district of approximately $300 a year. By the time the construction is completed, tax revenue from the parcel is expected to increase to at least 75 times that much.

A survey completed for Hess prior to his decision to invest in Kingston indicated a need for at least 1,000 additional apartment units in this area.

Harold W. O'Connor, a qualified appraiser and member of the real estate firm of O'Connor and Fox, noted that there were waiting lists at all other quality garden apartment developments. The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce also reports frequent inquiries about availability of modern apartments in the greater Kingston area.

Planners Approve
O'Connor has also pointed out that the city's present zoning ordinance makes no provision, outside the urban renewal projects, for garden apartments which are necessary to attract skilled workers and technicians needed badly by local industry. The project has received the approval of the city Planning Board.

A survey of other quality garden apartment developments in the greater Kingston area has shown that nearby property values have increased. The existing installations include Sunset Garden Apartments, Skytop Apartments, Hurley Ridge, Chestnut Street Apartments, Millers Lane Apartments, all in the Kingston area and Simmons Apartments at Saugerties.

BY NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs, climbing at a 10-year record pace and more than wiping out wage gains of many Americans, are causing White House concern in this election year.

For all Americans, a White House source said Thursday, the rising prices mean "you've got trouble and it's not on the horizon, it's all around you."

3.1 Increase

The Labor Department reported Thursday living costs rose 3.1 per cent in 1967.

"Not only are they clipping along, but at an accelerated rate," the White House source said of steadily climbing costs of food, clothing, housing, transportation and medical care.

The price hikes in the final quarter of 1967 would add up to an annual rate of 3.5 per cent if they continued this year, said Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

And, Chase said, "It looks as if the trend would continue."

"Almost everything went up in December except automobiles and gasoline," Chase said in reporting final 1967 figures.

The Consumer Price Index in December showed its third straight monthly rise of three-tenths of one per cent and wound up the year at 118.2.

This means it cost $11.82 last month for every $10 worth of typical family goods and services in the 1957-59 period which the government uses as a base for measuring the rise in living costs.

Wawarsing Appoints Marl

The Wawarsing Town Board held a special meeting last night to appoint a superintendent of Highways.

Named to the post, by a vote of 4 to 1, was Clifford Marl of Cragsmoor.

Marl lost a previous election to the post by 124 votes. The superintendent's position was vacated through the death of Harry Decker of Ellenville.

Marl will serve only until November when another election will be held.

In other terms, the 1957-59 dollar sustained a loss of 15.4 cents over the past 10 years.

Some 45 million workers—60 per cent of the nation's workforce—lost 7 cents a week in purchasing power over the past year despite wage gains of $3.28 to an average of $103.25 a week.

President Johnson, in his State of the Union speech earlier this month, warned of "an accelerating spiral of price increases, a slump in home building and a continuing erosion of the American dollar."

If Congress doesn't enact his proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Equally worrisome to government economists is a rapid rise in wholesale prices of industrial raw materials such as lumber, metals and textiles, which remained virtually stable the first half of 1967 but jumped 1.3 per cent in the last five months of the year.

Food prices Rise

Food prices, the most stable item in living costs in 1967, rose a comparatively slight three-

tenths of one per cent. But a wholesale jump of 2.8 per cent in farm prices and 1 per cent in processed foods in December and January indicate higher grocery costs, particularly for fruits and vegetables.

The bureau reported grocery prices up five-tenths of 1 per cent in December and up three-tenths of 1 per cent over the year; housing up four-tenths of 1 per cent last month and 2.7 per cent over the year; clothing up two-tenths of 1 per cent in December and 4 per cent over the year.

Transportation prices dropped three-tenths of 1 per cent in December because of gasoline price wars and lower prices for new and used cars, but rose 3.6 per cent over the year.

Medical costs, the highest and consistently the fastest-rising price category, went up five-tenths of 1 per cent in December and were 6.4 per cent above December 1966. Medical care services, chiefly doctors' and dentists' fees, rose 7.9 per cent in 1967.

Saugerties Snow Drifters, a snowmobile club, was formed Jan. 13.

Elected to serve as officers were: Robert Lewis, president; Floyd Curry, vice-president; Mary Lou Lewis, secretary; Judy Stoltz, treasurer.

Following the meeting, members took part in a cross country ride from Malden to Saugerties and back. A second cross country trip took members from Malden to West Camp where an hour was spent chasing two wild fox from field to field until they disappeared into the woods.

On Sunday, Jan. 20, the club held events on Mike Crout Road.

Mass. Trucker Found Dead

A 27-year-old Massachusetts truck driver, making a delivery of hamburger meat, to Donald M. Swan cold storage and ice company, was found dead this morning beside his truck outside the Albany Avenue storage firm.

Kingston city police identified the man as Raymond H. Westgate, of 127 Hartford Avenue, Hopdale, Mass. He had apparently driven down from Syracuse last night and remained in his truck throughout a part of the night with the motor running.

According to Donald Swan, owner of the storage company, MacDonald's Hamburgers Company requested 25 60-pound boxes of hamburger meat, which was to be stored in Swan's freezers until needed.

Westgate drove down from Syracuse to make the delivery, apparently arrived at the storage house before it opened, which, according to Swan, was "not unusual," and waited in the truck.

He had been seen moving about in the truck at about 8 a. m. Westgate then got out of the truck and sat on the running board.

The driver then toppled in the snow at around 8:30 and Kingston police came to investigate. Ulster County Coroner William Keyser rushed to the scene, the man was pronounced dead, and his body was taken to the Kingston Hospital morgue for an autopsy.

A police spokesman said that the cause of death was "probably caused by carbon monoxide poisoning."

Bay Stater Held After Greene Mishap

A Massachusetts man was arrested early today by Leeds State Police on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident after his car was involved in a collision at the intersection of Routes 23 and Route 9W near Catskill.

Troopers said Christian Hanna of Tyngsboro was apprehended about a half mile from the scene of the mishap which occurred at 12:05 a. m. and involved a car owned by Barney Hotelling, 63, of Catskill, and a tractor-trailer operated by Floyd Wetmore, 43, also of Catskill.

According to troopers, Hotelling and Wetmore were both stopped for a red traffic light at the intersection when the south-bound car driven by Hanna hit Hotelling's car and pushed it into the rear of the truck. Troopers said Hanna apparently fell asleep and failed to stop after the collision.

Hotelling complained of chest pains. He was treated at Greene County Memorial Hospital and later released.

Punctured Tires In Newburgh May Be Solved

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Three Boys, two 15 and one 12, were seized Thursday and accused of puncturing school-bus tires last Monday, necessitating canceling of classes on that day.

State police said that the juveniles, all charged with malicious mischief, would appear at a later date in Juvenile Court. No names were released because of their ages.

Drivers reporting to work Monday at the terminal of the Newburgh-Beacon Bus Co. found the tires punctured on all 22 buses. Some 2,500 pupils were affected by the school cancellation.

NEW HOME FOR COLLEGE PREXY—The Ulster County Legislature College Committee will recommend the purchase of the Dr. Tocco House on Rt. 209, Stone Ridge, as a permanent home for the president of Ulster County Community College. A $58,000 purchase price was also advised by the committee, whose report will be acted on by the full legislature at its next meeting, Feb. 8. The late Macdonald DeWitt donated $50,000 for the establishment of a permanent home for the college president, currently, Dr. George B. Erbstein. The 10-room house, owned by Dr. Anthony Tocco, is situated on 9½ acres of land. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

The 28th Nod? Problems Abound

By CHARLES BERMPOLH
Freeman Political Writer

Reapportionment, funds, and the $250,000 question, "Will Joe Resnick run again?" continue to plague both Republicans and Democrats who have an interest in securing their party's Congressional nomination in the 28th District.

With the New York State Legislature waiting to deal with court-ordered reapportionment in the 28th, most Congressional hopefuls are playing a wait-and-see game. The extent of the new reapportionment formula will be of extreme importance to these men (no woman has yet been mentioned as a possible candidate) and some will make their decision to lay their careers on the line once a plan is created.

There are some who believe that the new reapportionment plan will not be drastic.

"It doesn't make too much sense, both from a political and a practical standpoint, to make a drastic change in the district layout," said one attorney and former delegate to the State's Constitutional Convention.

"(A big change) would at least disconcert the Democrats who have elected a Congressman from this district, and I can't see the Republicans as wanting it because with Resnick out of the running the district appears relatively safe (for them)."

However, State Senator Jay P. Rolison, mentioned as a Congressional "possible," said that reapportionment could divide Ulster and Dutchess even though, he felt, this did not seem to be the possibility.

Rolison also mentioned that Putnam County could be added to the 28th.

As for funds, the question touches almost all of the "possibilities."

On the Republican side, Kingston attorney Frank Campochiaro said that he "just couldn't afford it."

No Million Around

"There was a time when being nominated by the Republicans meant election, but now, with a Democrat in office, you have to fight for it. If I was slated to inherit a million dollars, I'd try for it, but that's not in the cards," he said.

Another Kingston attorney, H. Clark Bell of Woodstock, a man who claims to be leaving the Congressional door open, said that one of the factors which will effect a decision on his part will be whether Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick makes another run.

"If Resnick puts up a quarter of a million dollars again, then the Republican candidate will have to put up a like amount," said Bell.

Bell also mentioned other factors as being reapportionment, the political plans of Governor Rockefeller, and what scheme president Johnson will develop to deal with the Vietnam War.

"Johnson may need a 'hawk' to run in New York State (for Senator) if the 'doves' appear to be making progress. If so, he could place a few phone calls for Resnick and this could change the picture," Bell declared.

Another Kingston attorney, Robert A. MacKinnon, assistant district attorney and close personal friend of GOP County Chairman John B. Sterley, let it be known that reapportionment remains a question in his mind.

"I am thinking in terms of finances if the Congressional District is expanded," he said. Sen. Rolison has indicated that he likes his job in the State Senate and he feels that he is performing a valuable service there.

Another possibility is that Rolison would not want to jeopardize his political future by putting it on the line in a battle against Resnick, or another strong Democrat, and possibly a primary battle with Hamilton Fish Jr.

Two Cautious

Rolison, however, still remains a "possible," and he is, like Clark Bell, cautious on the matter.

assistant district attorney who, along with Fish, has announced his intention of seeking the Republican nod, believes his chances for capturing the nomination are "very good" even though he does feel, he is in an "underdog position."

Liddy has said that he intends to go into a primary battle. "All of our efforts are geared to go into a primary," he said.

Liddy said that his "position papers will be coming out soon" and that he will be coming into Ulster County to "meet the public."

He further declared that, "I don't think anybody can capture the nomination easily" and that the person who gains the nod "will be the person who, has fought awfully hard for it."

The front runner for the Republican nomination at this time remains the 1966 nominee, Fish.

As for his chances, "Things look very favorable at this time," he said, and he went on to say that, so far, there has not been any "major opposition from people who could muster support."

Reapport Big Shadow

"The big shadow is reapportionment," said Fish, but he added that he did not feel the district lines will change much.

As for the Democrats, no name has yet been mentioned with any great degree of force and of those whose names have received more than casual interest are remaining vague on the issue.

Museum Group Elects Trustees

Election of trustees of the Mid-Hudson-Catskills Museum took place at the fourth annual meeting of members held recently in the Coykendall science lecture hall at State University College in New Paltz.

Newly elected trustees were Mrs. Anne Armstrong of Salt Point, Mrs. Virgil B. DeWitt of New Paltz, William K. Hayes of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Elizabeth Hurd of Clintondale, Dr. Clinton M. Greenwood of Billings, Mrs. Ruth N. Greenwood of the same Dutchess County community and Roger Mabie of Port Ewen.

Reelected trustees were Mrs. Elizabeth Burroughs Kelley of West Park, Craig Smith of the University of North Carolina

Ulster County Democratic Chairman Dr. Gerald P. Gorman's name has appeared in conversation, but the Kingston surgeon would have to give up a lucrative profession if he got the job, and he has told this reporter that he "just doesn't have the money."

Waryas Contended

Rakov said that those who can afford the job are "professional people who have private practices" who can keep those practices alive while they are in Congress.

Dutchess County Assemblyman Victor C. Waryas appears perfectly contented with the State Assembly.

According to informed sources, Waryas was offered the Democratic nod for county executive, a job that paid well and would have kept him close to home. Waryas turned it down.

Ulster County legislator Roger Mabie has been mentioned as a possible contender, but, again, there is the inevitable question of funds, both to run a campaign and to remain in office, and Mabie is a man of moderate income, according to sources.

Another Democratic name to crop up is that of Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan. Garraghan remains silent however.

and Mrs. Patricia Tienken of Ulster Park.

The 18-member board represents both sides of the Hudson River in the growing interest and concern for understanding of the natural environment of the region.

The meeting was addressed by Dr. Robert W. Pyle, professor of biology at the State University College and a trustee of the Museum. Dr. Pyle recently returned from nearly a year and a half spent in India as advisor on education to the Indian government and he presented a scientist's view on the sub-continent of India, illustrated by a remarkable collection of color slides.

Candidate Discussion

State GOP Chairmen Confer

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican state chairmen from 12 Northeastern states and the District of Columbia gathered today for a closed door meeting to determine if there is a candidate who could defeat President Johnson.

Carl Shipley, GOP chairman for Washington, D.C., said on the eve of the two-day session at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel that he expected the name of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller "will be high on the agenda."

But Charles A. Schoeneck Jr., New York's GOP chairman, when asked by newsmen what he would say if questioned about Rockefeller's availability, replied, "All I can tell them is what his wishes are—that he is not a candidate."

Schoeneck, who said he planned to leave for his Syracuse home after tonight's session, added that he had not discussed the meeting with Rockefeller, "but I know the governor knows about it, and I am well aware of what his wishes are."

The meeting was called by Howard E. Russell Jr., GOP chairman in Rhode Island and chairman of the Northeastern Association of Republican State Chairmen.

Russell said the purpose of the meeting was "to see if there is any consensus on the best man for us to back and if there is, to discuss what we can do to help him along."

"We'll take a poll of their views," he said, "and then see where we stand. I've assured each of them that he would not be put on the spot, and unless there is unanimity on some course of action, I would not think we would have any announcements to make."

Russell is a supporter of Michigan Gov. George Romney but has been quoted recently as saying the Romney campaign "is failing to catch fire." But he denied reports that he would attempt to rally some support for Rockefeller.

Rockefeller himself never allowed a reporter to finish a question about the meeting when approached at a GOP dinner Thursday night.

"About this meeting tomorrow, governor, there are rumors..." the reporter began.

"I know the rumors," Rockefeller snapped, "and I deny them."

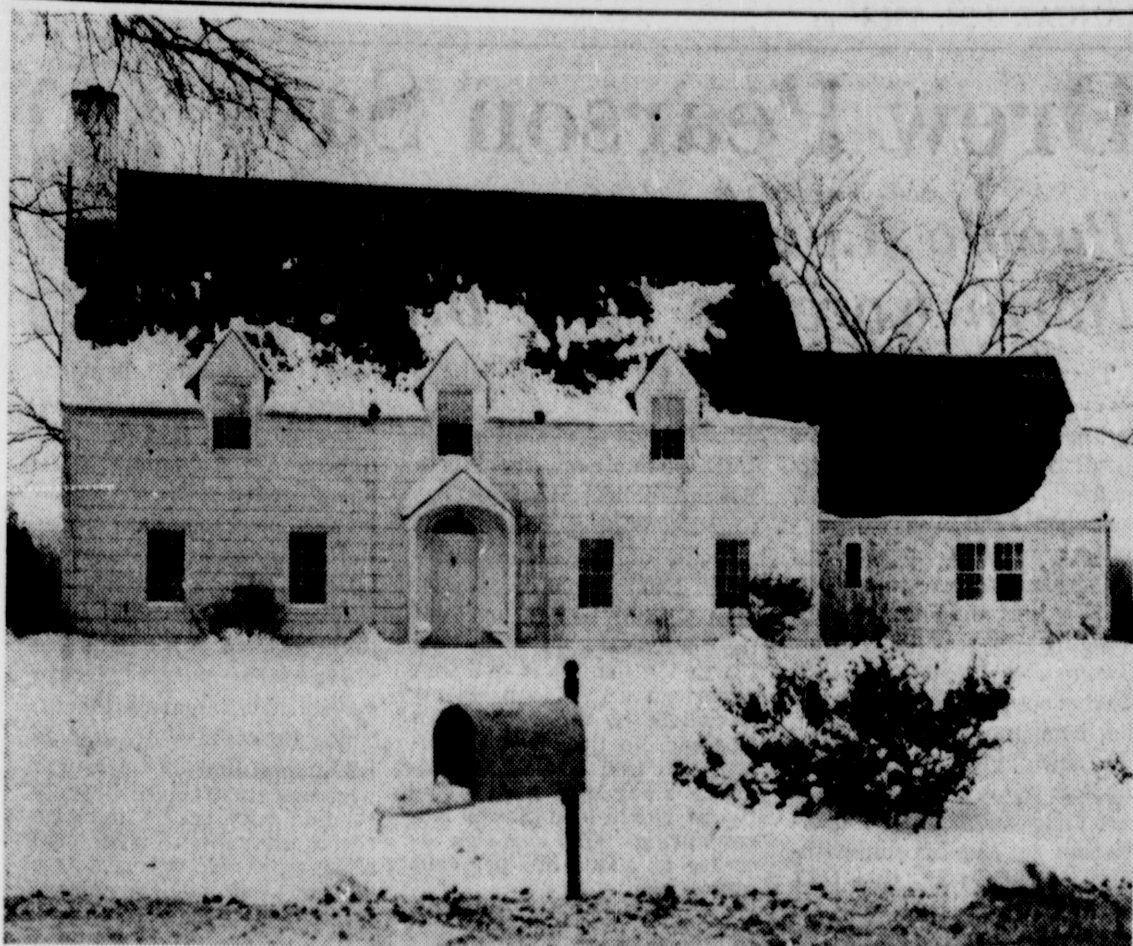

Most of the state chairmen were keeping their own counsel on the eve of the meeting.

Massachusetts State GOP chairman Josiah Spaulding said he knew of no move regarding either Romney or Rockefeller and explained that most of the work would center on logistics for the national convention.

John C. Jordan, state chairman in Pennsylvania, said he would attend to "compare notes" on the candidates and "outline the situation in Pennsylvania as I see it."

Russell said he had intended to keep the meeting secret because he doubted the dozen chairmen would agree on a single nominee.

"I asked everybody in the letter of invitation not to notify the press," he said Wednesday night after word of the meeting got out. "Apparently the request was not honored."

As for the Democrats, no name has yet been mentioned with any great degree of force and of those whose names have received more than casual interest are remaining vague on the issue.

Museum Group Elects Trustees

Election of trustees of the Mid-Hudson-Catskills Museum took place at the fourth annual meeting of members held recently in the Cuykendall science lecture hall at State University College in New Paltz.

Newly elected trustees were Mrs. Anne Armstrong of Salt Point, Mrs. Virgil B. DeWitt of New Paltz, William K. Hayes of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Elizabeth Hurd of Clintondale, Dr. Clinton M. Greenwood of Billings, Mrs. Ruth N. Greenwood of the same Dutchess County community and Roger Mabie of Port Ewen.

Re-elected trustees were Mrs. Elizabeth Burroughs Kelley of West Park, Craig Smith of the University of North Carolina

Ulster County Democratic Chairman Dr. Gerald P. Gorman's name has appeared in conversation, but the Kingston surgeon would have to give up a lucrative profession if he got the job, and he has told this reporter that he "just doesn't have the money."

Rotron executive Peter Rakov of Woodstock said that his name had been mentioned but, "whoever mentioned it couldn't have been serious."

Waryas Contented
Rakov said that those who can afford the job are "professional people who have private practices" who can keep those practices alive while they are in Congress.

Dutchess County Assemblyman Victor C. Waryas appears perfectly contented with the State Assembly.

According to informed sources, Waryas was offered the Democratic nod for county executive, a job that paid well and would have kept him close to home.

Waryas turned it down. Ulster County legislator Roger Mabie has been mentioned as a possible contender, but, again, there is the inevitable question of funds, both to run a campaign and to remain in office, and Mabie is a man of moderate income, according to sources.

Another Democratic name to crop up is that of Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan. Garraghan remains silent however.

and Mrs. Patricia Tienken of Ulster Park.

The 18-member board represents both sides of the Hudson River in the growing interest and concern for understanding of the natural environment of the region.

The meeting was addressed by Dr. Robert W. Pyle, professor of biology at the State University College and a trustee of the Museum. Dr. Pyle recently returned from nearly a year and a half spent in India as advisor on education to the Indian government and he presented a scientist's view on the sub-continent of India, illustrated by a remarkable collection of color slides.

Candidate Discussion

State GOP Chairmen Confer

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican state chairmen from 12 Northeastern states and the District of Columbia gathered today for a closed door meeting to determine if there is a candidate who could defeat President Johnson.

Carl Shipley, GOP chairman for Washington, D.C., said on the eve of the two-day session at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel that he expected the name of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller "will be high on the agenda."

But Charles A. Schoeneck Jr., New York's GOP chairman, when asked by newsmen what he would say if questioned about Rockefeller's availability, replied, "All I can tell them is what his wishes are—that he is not a candidate."

Schoeneck, who said he planned to leave for his Syracuse home after tonight's session, added that he had not discussed the meeting with Rockefeller, "but I know the governor knows about it, and I am well aware of what his wishes are."

The meeting was called by Howard E. Russell Jr., GOP chairman in Rhode Island and chairman of the Northeastern Association of Republican State Chairmen.

Russell said the purpose of the meeting was "to see if there is any consensus on the best man for us to back and if there is, to discuss what we can do to help him along."

be put on the spot, and unless there is unanimity on some course of action, I would not think we would have any announcements to make."

Russell is a supporter of Michigan Gov. George Romney but has been quoted recently as saying the Romney campaign "is failing to catch fire." But he denied reports that he would attempt to rally some support for Rockefeller.

Rockefeller himself never allowed a reporter to finish a question about the meeting when approached at a GOP dinner Thursday night.

"About this meeting tomorrow, governor, there are rumors..." the reporter began.

"I know the rumors," snapped Rockefeller, "and I deny them."

Most of the state chairmen were keeping their own counsel on the eve of the meeting.

Massachusetts State GOP chairman Josiah Spaulding said he knew of no move regarding either Romney or Rockefeller and explained that most of the work would center on logistics for the national convention.

John C. Jordan, state chairman in Pennsylvania, said he would attend to "compare notes" on the candidates and "outline the situation in Pennsylvania as I see it."

Russell said he had intended to keep the meeting secret because he doubted the dozen chairmen would agree on a single nominee.

"I asked everybody in the letter of invitation not to notify the press," he said Wednesday night after word of the meeting got out. "Apparently the request was not honored."

Another Fire In Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie firefighters early today battled another major fire in the downtown business district on lower Main Street, which forced eight tenants to flee to safety scantily clothed in near zero weather. Two paid firemen were injured while assisting at the 2-alarm blaze.

It was the second major fire to occur in lower Main Street in about a week.

Fire Chief Irving Merrick in command of the full force of firemen said the fire was discovered shortly before 2:40 a. m. and the first alarm sounded a moment later. The second alarm was ordered by the chief at 2:50 a. m., calling out all off duty firemen and summoning Arlington and Fairview fire companies to the city to cover up at the central fire stations.

The fire gutted the three-story building at 131 Main Street, almost opposite the Millman's furniture, paint and wallpaper store which was merely occupied by a shoe store, but was vacant at the time of the blaze.

Cold Weather Hampers

When firemen arrived at this morning's blaze they were confronted with dense smoke which filled the neighborhood and caused fire truck drivers to move at snail pace until they arrived at the burning building. Firefighters were hampered by the cold weather that covered the pavement of streets in the vicinity with ice.

Occupants of the second and third floor apartments groped their way through smoke-filled hallways to safety as fire apparatus pulled up in front of the building owned by William and Thomas DeCesare. Those who were forced to evacuate their home included James Thompson, Cornell Wilson, Julia Gallimore and son, Edward, 9, occupants of the second floor, and Odell Nimons and Juanita Lee, and 11-year-old daughter, Debra. All escaped without injury.

Fireman Charles O'Hern was treated for a foreign substance in his eyes and burns he suffered in a heat flash. Fireman Kenneth Nelson was treated for an injury of his hands sustained while on a ladder.

Store Was Vacant

Flames burned rapidly up through the building and a three-story structure next door was damaged by smoke and water, fire officials said. The main floor of the building where the fire occurred for wallpaper store which was merely occupied by a shoe store, but was vacant at the time of the blaze.

As ice coated pavement in the area, police set up barricades on downtown streets leading off Main. The fire units reported back in service at 7:30 a. m., but later Engine 1 returned to the scene to wet down smoldering debris.

Assisting Chief Merrick at the fire were Deputy Chiefs Henry Van Nostrand and John Nugent.

The cause of the blaze was not determined.

Arrest Two Youths In Battery Thefts

Two East Kingston youths, arrested early this morning for allegedly stealing 15 automobile batteries during the night, were charged with petit larceny in City Court today and Judge Hubert Richter set their bail at $500 each.

The youths, 16-year-old Timothy Jackson of Box 262, and Allen Jones, 19, of Box 260, were arraigned before Judge Richter at 9 a. m. this morning. He postponed their trial until tomorrow.

They were remanded to the county jail to await court action.

It was at 1:14 a. m. that the first call was received at the police station, reporting the attempted theft of an automobile battery in the vicinity of 160 Second Avenue.

Car 19, operated by Officers Ira Hadsel and Donald Playford, responded, but the thieves had escaped.

At 1:56 a. m. a Colonial Gardens car owner reported the theft of a battery. By this time all patrols had been alerted and car 17 officers Gerald Tierney and William Mulford rushed to the scene.

Again, however, the thieves had escaped.

Then, at 3:14 a. m., officers Hadsel and Playford, assisted by Tierney and Mulford and car 9 policemen Harold DeGraff and George Barringer, picked up the two youths.

Jones was cited for driving an unregistered vehicle, operating an uninsured vehicle, being an unlicensed operator, and having improper plates.

The batteries were confiscated and put in the police locker for reclaiming.

Anniversary Theme for Local Kiwanis

The 53rd anniversary of Kiwanis International was the theme for a varied program presented at the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday, under the direction of President Donald MacIsaac and Bernard Redmond, chairman of the program committee for the day.

A large birthday cake was present at the meeting, and all members were served a portion. Committee chairmen for 1968 were called upon to give a brief resume of their particular committee as to its functions and its plans for the coming year.

"It sounds as though the Kingston Kiwanis Club is going to be a beehive of activity this year," stated one veteran member after listening to the reports of the committee chairmen.

North Dutchess Nurse Heads In Union Vote

Michael C. Mazzarella, Northern Dutchess Hospital administrator, announced today that NDH nursing supervisors will vote on the issue of union membership next month.

The six supervisors will decide whether or not they want the newly-formed Dutchess County Hospital Employees Association as their collective bargaining agent.

The regular nursing staff, both registered and practical, voted on the union question last December resulting in a favorable decision for the union.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 26, 1968

New Defense Secretary

Among Democrats in Congress, the appointment of Clark Clifford as Secretary of Defense was greeted with acclaim. They recalled that as a lawyer he had helped draw the plans to unify the armed forces in 1947. Now, 21 years later, he is called to administer them.

Clifford has other connections with the armed forces. As head of the part-time Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, Clifford was in the presidential party that went to Manila for the summit meeting of the Asian allies in the Vietnam war last year. He has counseled President Johnson on matters affecting the military, foreign affairs, intelligence operations, economics, and their political consequences.

Brought to the White House by President Truman as a naval aide in 1946, the lawyer from St. Louis has been close to the seat of power ever since, except in the Eisenhower years. But he worked with the Eisenhower Administration when he planned the Kennedy takeover from the Republican regime.

However, writing the legislation that created the Department of Defense, counseling Presidents Truman, Kennedy and Johnson is not the same as taking personal responsibility for its administration. When the department spends as much as the rest of the Government combined, over $70 billion, the administrative task calls for a great executive.

Clifford gave a hint on the new relationship between him and the President, when he said: "I will have but one client from now on, if confirmed, and that client will be the United States."

No man can have a greater client anywhere in the world. With such an attitude, the cheers greeting Clifford's appointment might be well taken. But we'd feel a little more comfortable about it if he had had any responsible experience in administering huge organizations.

Dogs Running Wild

Residents of the Town of Ulster report packs of dogs running wild in the neighborhood menacing children and destroying property. Since the town ordinance stipulates only that a dog must wear a license, the owners are within their legal rights to let their dogs run wild.

Under the town law, a taxpayer has but one recourse to seek satisfaction for the destruction of his property, and that is to file complaint with the justice of the peace. The town is no party to the action.

Although very difficult to enforce, the town should at least have a leash law. This would help as it would have the effect of town enforcement and an obligation to come to the aid of the property owner. The State Department of Agriculture and Markets, which administers the dog licensing law and sees that town ordinances conform to state regulations, should approve of such a law.

Of course, laws alone will not make some people take the responsibility of keeping their dogs in check.

Another reminder to dog owners in the county districts is that it is illegal to permit dogs to run at large in areas inhabited by deer. At this time of year, hard crust on the snow trap deer.

Those who profess to love "man's best friend" should safeguard him from severe restrictions by either placing him on a leash, or exercising control that will keep him from being a public nuisance.

"This is the proudest day of my life," Whitlock told the IRS district manager when he turned in his tax return. "It's the first time I've earned enough money to file an income tax and I'm proud of it. I think I owe this country a lot and just filing a return makes me feel that I have somehow satisfied that debt." He has and more.

David Lawrence Says

Republican Speakers Made Deep Impression

WASHINGTON—Another example was given Tuesday night of how difficult it is for the party out of power to overcome the advantages which an incumbent president has in television and newspaper space.

For President Johnson on January 17 had an hour of television time on all three networks simultaneously. The Republicans, of course, have not picked their presidential candidate yet, but they were offered "equal time" on the same night by the Columbia Broadcasting Company. They were not in a position to put on their replies so quickly and accepted "equal time" for a program a week later.

It may well be assumed that President Johnson had a bigger advantage by far than did the 17 Republicans in their rebuttal on Jan. 24. But the Republican speakers did make a deep impression.

One reason for this was that they offered a variety of speakers—eight senators and nine representatives, each of whom talked approximately two minutes. Their speeches were succinct and to the point. Mrs. Charlotte T. Reid, Representative from Illinois, whose son is in Vietnam, deplored protests and disunity and dramatically called for support of the war by the American people so that the lives which have been lost in Vietnam will not have been "sacrificed in vain." She made an obvious imprint on the audience of several hundred—mostly members of Congress and their wives—who were seated in the auditorium of the Senate office building. They applauded with unmistakable earnestness.

The Republican speakers chosen for the program were for the most part from the younger group in Congress. All of the participants made it a point to use simple English to express themselves in words that listeners in the television audience could understand, since many persons are not intimately familiar with public affairs.

While former President Eisenhower started off the program with the statement that the times are as critical as any he has known, he did not deal with specific questions, as did other speakers who followed him. Senator George Murphy of California, a former actor, who was the moderator of the TV presentation, made his introductions and comments with good showmanship.

There can be little doubt that those who watched the program thought that, on the whole, it was a very interesting and effective response to the "State of the Union" message of the President. But it may well be conjectured that the audience—a week after Mr. Johnson's address was delivered and over the one network—was just a fraction of those who heard the President's own appearance.

Millions of people did not even know until afterwards that the program was on TV. No such advance publicity was given it as the President enjoyed. This is not surprising, as presidents make more news and get far more space than their opposition.

In the newspapers, the attention given to the Republican TV program was relatively little. Mr. Johnson probably was noticed by even more readers the same morning when a picture appeared on the sports pages showing him receiving a baseball bat from a player who starred last October in the World Series.

Representative Gerald Ford, House minority leader, has called for a debate during the campaign between the President and the Republican presidential nominee so that both sides may be heard at the same time. Undoubtedly there will be pressure for a confrontation such as occurred in 1960 between Senator Kennedy and Vice President Nixon after each was nominated for the presidency.

Although the Republicans did make an interesting broadcast, they would have been much better off if they could have put on Messrs. Nixon, Rockefeller, Romney, Reagan and if they had been given time by all three networks to present their case, perhaps a few days after the President's own appearance.

The World Today

Korean Episode Is Peanuts Compared With N. Viet Guessing

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Trying to guess at this moment what the North Koreans and the North Vietnamese Communists are up to is like trying to guess why Santa Claus always looks fat. It's a bit of a fantasy.

The reason is simple: Nothing positive has been disclosed yet about the motives behind their most recent actions.

This week the North Koreans captured the USS Pueblo, a Navy intelligence-gathering ship loaded with electronics, and her crew of 81 plus two civilians off the Korean coast. You really need a crystal ball on this one.

One idea comes to mind immediately: That the capture was part of a plot worked out with North Vietnam to add to the pressure on this country to make peace in Vietnam, for otherwise it might be faced with a war in Korea, too.

But before any guess is sensible one question has to be answered beyond dispute, and that hasn't happened yet: Was the American ship in international waters, where she would have a right to be, or was she in Korean territorial waters, spying on Korea?

There's not much doubt about the spying. The ship was equipped for that. The North Koreans say the Pueblo was in their territorial waters and issued what they say is a "confession" by the American skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd Mark Bucher, admitting his ship was spying within Korean territorial waters. The Defense Department quickly called the alleged "confession" a "travesty on the facts" and that, judging by the kind of language used, Bucher couldn't have written the kind of statement attributed to him.

Christian Less Positive But—at the White House secretary, George Christian, was something less than positive about where the ship was.

"To the best of our information," Christian said, it was in international waters. He refused to be more positive. This brings up the memory of the American U-2 spy plane shot down over the Soviet Union in 1960 during the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. This government at first denied the plane was on a spy mission, tried to say it was simply gathering weather information.

The Soviets had too much evidence and a few days later the United States admitted the plane had been spying. But the guessing on this Korean episode is peanuts compared with some of the guessing about North Vietnam.

North Vietnam believes public feeling in this country is so intensely antiwar that Johnson is bound to be defeated in this year's election and that then maybe business can be done with his Republican successor.

Until then, as this particular guess sees it, the North Vietnamese have decided they must continue the war doggedly. But there's a soft spot in this thinking.

Three Back LBJ in War Of the four Republicans talked of as possible presidential candidates, three are generally behind Johnson on the war. They are former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The fourth, Michigan's Gov. George Romney, has been all over the lot on the war but very recently backed Johnson on continued bombing of the North.

All kinds of hocus-pocus can be read into North Vietnam's persistent refusal to accept Johnson's condition for ending the bombing: That the North must give some assurance it would then be willing to talk peace quickly. What could be the motives behind the refusal. Several come to mind: That the North Vietnamese are not anxious to end the war; that the longer the war, the more antiwar sentiment in this country will pressure Johnson into making concessions; or that they're just mumbling about peace to make themselves look good in the eyes of the world.

Drew Pearson Says Pueblo Commander Thought North Koreans Were Bluffing

There is no ship in the U. S. Navy which the Defense Department would have less liked to have fall into enemy hands the USS Pueblo, crammed as it was with sophisticated electronic devices. The reasons why nearby U. S. planes and ships did not come to its rescue, or why Commander Lloyd M. Bucher surrendered without a struggle, or without scuttling her, are now under intensive, indignant investigation. The last time an American commander gave up his ship without a fight was the USS Chesapeake in 1812, and he was court-martialed afterwards.

Some of the reasons for the incident can now be disclosed as follows:

1. Reason why commander did not call for help was because he thought the North Koreans were bluffing. He didn't dream there would be a communist seizure of an American naval vessel in international waters, so didn't take the warning seriously.

Actually there were two hours in which he could have called for help, and there were about a hundred air force fighters and fighter bombers in both South Korea and Japan which could have responded at a moment's notice.

The reason why Commander Bucher did not finally scuttle the ship when he saw the North Koreans coming alongside with a patrol boat to board the Pueblo was because he blew up electronic equipment instead. Apparently he thought this was sufficient, though some of his superiors in Washington disagree. There has been no explanation of why he didn't drop his anchor and foul his rudder.

2. Reason why the Pueblo was off Korean coast was to locate Russian nuclear submarines. Russia has 350 submarines, of which 40 are nuclear, and we have refined devices which can not only locate them but tell what kind of vessels they are. The Pueblo was watching for Soviet submarines out of Vladivostok.

Actually she was not 25 miles off the North Korean coast, as officially stated, but 16 miles, which is four miles outside the 12-mile limit.

Soviet Spying The Russian navy uses fishing trawlers to do exactly the same type of spying on our Polaris submarines as we do on them. Their trawlers are located off the Florida coast, where they watch missiles fired from Cape Kennedy; off Roto, the big U. S. naval base in Spain; Holy Loch, the American base in Scotland; and off Guam in the mid-Pacific.

Both the Soviet and the American strategy is to try to locate nuclear submarines which normally lie for about 30 days at a time off the potential enemy's coast.

The Polaris missiles on our nuclear submarines and on the Russian submarines must be calibrated, before they leave port, in order to hit certain targets on land. It is impossible to change the calibration after a submarine starts its cruise. Therefore the missiles must be fired after the sub reaches certain exact spots under the ocean where it lies on guard for periods of about 30 days. It is important for each nation, therefore, in its game of submarine hide-and-seek, to locate these spots in which case the sub could be knocked out of commission the minute war breaks.

3. Reason for seizing the USS Pueblo was the North Korean policy, which it has urged on other communist nations, of diversionary tactics. North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung has argued that the best way to help the North Vietnamese is to divert American worry to problems elsewhere in the world. To this end North Korea has instigated well over 500 incidents along the border between North and South Korea during 1967 alone—an increase of about 500 per cent over 1966.

"All the socialist countries should form the broadest possible anti-American united front," said Premier Kim last month, "and administer collective blows to the United States in all regions."

Russia and Retaliation It is not believed that Moscow entirely shares this viewpoint, nor that it had any knowledge of North Korean plans to seize the Pueblo.

There is a clique in the Kremlin, however, which is known to believe that the only way to pressure the United States into giving up the war in Vietnam is by applying pressure in other parts of the world, such as the Near East. The buildup of Russian naval forces in the Mediterranean, and the tremendous concentration of Soviet arms in Egypt and Syria, together with Russian moves to take over Britain's evacuated bases east of Suez, are believed part of this pressure strategy.

With or without Kremlin approval, it is believed there will be more diversionary tactics against the United States as the war in South Vietnam intensifies.

Under discussion in the Defense Department has been retaliatory action against the Soviet Union. Among other things, the question of seizing Soviet trawlers off the American coast has been proposed. Also under discussion has been a strategy of asking Generalissimo Franco of Spain, who has plenty of Soviet electronic trawlers lying off Roto, to haul one of them into port. Franco, however, has recently been getting cozy with Moscow, and he might not make the move.

The Pueblo was a different kind of ship than the USS Liberty, badly battered, with 31 men killed, by Israeli patrol boats and fighter planes last June. The Liberty, operated by the National Security Agency, was lying more than 15 miles off the Egyptian coast intercepting messages exchanged between Israeli forces and their command posts, and Egyptian forces with their commands.

Although Israelis claimed the attack on the Liberty was a case of mistaken identity, there was a deep suspicion in the Navy Department that the attack was deliberate. The Pueblo was operated by the Navy itself, not the National Security Agency, and was not engaged in intercepting messages.

Clifford Selection Every Secretary of Defense since the office was established in 1947 has represented the industrial-military alliance which President Eisenhower warned against in his last message to the American people. They have been either industrialists themselves or lawyers like Louis Johnson or bankers like James Forrestal representing big defense industries.

The new Secretary of Defense, Clark Clifford, is no exception.

The only real exception was Robert S. McNamara who, though head of the second largest motor company in the world—Ford—had been a teacher, was essentially humanitarian, and time after time bucked the alliance which Eisenhower warned against. McNamara's theory, which he successfully sold to LBJ, was that nuclear war was so catastrophic the only solution was not to increase our already bristling arsenal of missiles but to negotiate missile and nuclear agreements with Russia instead.

Time after time McNamara refused to spend the billions voted by Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S. C., and other hawks in Congress for atomic-powered airplane carriers, the B-70 bomber and an anti-ballistic missile network. This eventually contributed to his downfall. The hawkish-minded politicians on Capitol Hill, plus the military-industrial alliance, packed too much of a punch with Congress.

Clark Clifford, on the other hand, has spent all of his career as a private attorney defending some of the defense giants. He has been on their side in their battles against the same U. S. government which he will now represent as Secretary of Defense.

Roll Call of Contractors These clients have pulled down in the fiscal year 1967 the sum total of $1,890,200,000 in defense contracts plus $494,659,000 in research grants, all from Uncle Sam.

General Electric, in the fiscal year 1967, ranked fourth among the defense contractors of the nation, with a total of $1,289,800,000 in war orders. GE also received a gift from Uncle Sam a total of $439,090,000 for research and development.

Another of Clifford's clients, the Radio Corporation of America, received $268,000,000 in defense contracts, plus $54,429,000 in grants from Uncle Sam.

Du Pont received $179,600,000 in defense contracts, and $1,140,000 in grants for research.

Standard Oil of California, another Clifford client, received $152,800,000 in defense contracts.

Clifford has done a phenomenal job for these clients. He helped to get Phillips Petroleum the right to build a refinery in Puerto Rico when all other oil companies were opposed.

He got the du Pont family's tax bill drastically reduced when they faced the prospect of paying Uncle Sam $470 million in taxes after the court decreed they had to sell their General Motors stock. This was done by an act of Congress.

Later, when General Motors stock went up in value, Clifford saved the du Pont family around $56 million additionally by persuading the Treasury to write a special tax ruling for the du Ponts.

Clifford has also represented the largest pipeline company in the world, El Paso Natural Gas, which three times has been cracked down on by the Supreme Court for trying to combine with Pacific Natural Gas. Somehow or other the battery of state lawyers always got El Paso's dubious claims past a complacent Justice Department and a previously supine Federal Power Commission, now much improved. They were not successful, however, in lulling the Supreme Court.

Praises Businessmen

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Paul H. Douglas, the old warrior of battles fought for consumers during his days as a leading Senate liberal, appears to be mellowing.

In his new job as chairman of the National Commission on Urban Problems, he has found some nice things to say about both businessmen and local officials.

He says, for example, that anyone inclined to believe that all private businessmen "are only interested in making money, without regard for community conditions or social consequences," simply is not well-informed.

"And this would be at least as true for anyone who thinks that local officials do nothing unless or until they are shoved or helped by the federal government."

The former Illinois Senator made these observations in a speech at the second annual legislative conference of the National Association of Counties.

His commission, which has conducted a series of hearings around the country, has been deeply impressed, he said, with the "striking evidences of blight and deprivation that are to be found in so many cities."

But the commission was equally impressed, he added, by "the concern with urban problems that has been evident in the communities we have visited, and with the thinking and efforts that are being applied to such problems."

Douglas demonstrated, however, that he is still capable of criticism where he feels it is needed. For example, he described the building industry as one of "the most retarded" in the nation and complained of its high costs.

He suggested that prefabrication might be one answer to this problem. "It would reduce the total cost and time of construction and at the same time enable the poor to get more and better housing."

He also made these points: —The burden of housing for the poor should be shared between suburban areas and central cities.

—Each state should pass legislation enabling county building codes to supersede municipal building codes.

—It is a mistake to assume that problems of urban blight, poverty and deprivation are largely limited to negroes. "While such conditions directly involve a considerably larger proportion of negro than of white families, there are in our metropolitan areas today more than twice as many white families as negro families with incomes below the poverty level."

He said that effective action to deal with urban problems "is likely to benefit, directly, at least as many white as negro citizens."

Douglas, who in "retirement" is still influential in congressional circles and also enjoys an exceptional entrée at the White House, will be an effective spokesman this year for President Johnson's urban programs.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 26, 1968

New Defense Secretary

Among Democrats in Congress, the appointment of Clark Clifford as Secretary of Defense was greeted with acclaim. They recalled that as a lawyer he had helped draw the plans to unify the armed forces in 1947. Now, 21 years later, he is called to administer them.

Clifford has other connections with the armed forces. As head of the part-time Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, Clifford was in the presidential party that went to Manila for the summit meeting of the Asian allies in the Vietnam war last year. He has counseled President Johnson on matters affecting the military, foreign affairs, intelligence operations, economics, and their political consequences.

Brought to the White House by President Truman as a naval aide in 1946, the lawyer from St. Louis has been close to the seat of power ever since, except in the Eisenhower years. But he worked with the Eisenhower Administration when he planned the Kennedy takeover from the Republican regime.

However, writing the legislation that created the Department of Defense, counseling Presidents Truman, Kennedy and Johnson is not the same as taking personal responsibility for its administration. When the department spends as much as the rest of the Government combined, over $70 billion, the administrative task calls for a great executive.

Clifford gave a hint on the new relationship between him and the President, when he said: "I will have but one client from now on, if confirmed, and that client will be the United States."

No man can have a greater client anywhere in the world. With such an attitude, the cheers greeting Clifford's appointment might be well taken. But we'd feel a little more comfortable about it if he had had any responsible experience in administering huge organizations.

Dogs Running Wild

Residents of the Town of Ulster report packs of dogs running wild in the neighborhood menacing children and destroying property. Since the town ordinance stipulates only that a dog must wear a license, the owners are within their legal rights to let their dogs run wild.

Under the town law, a taxpayer has but one recourse to seek satisfaction for the destruction of his property, and that is to file complaint with the justice of the peace. The town is no party to the action.

Although very difficult to enforce, the town should at least have a leash law. This would help as it would have the effect of town enforcement and an obligation to come to the aid of the property owner. The State Department of Agriculture and Markets, which administers the dog licensing law and sees that town ordinances conform to state regulations, should approve of such a law.

Of course, laws alone will not make some people take the responsibility of keeping their dogs in check. Another reminder to dog owners in the county districts is that it is illegal to permit dogs to run at large in areas inhabited by deer. At this time of year, hard crust on the snow trap deer.

Those who profess to love "man's best friend" should safeguard him from severe restrictions by either placing him on a leash, or exercising control that will keep him from being a public nuisance.

"This is the proudest day of my life," Whitlock told the IRS district manager when he turned in his tax return. "It's the first time I've earned enough money to file an income tax and I'm proud of it. I think I owe this country a lot and just filing a return makes me feel that I have somehow satisfied that debt." He has and more.

"My Kingdom for a Horse!"

David Lawrence Says Republican Speakers Made Deep Impression

WASHINGTON — Another example was given Tuesday night of how difficult it is for the party out of power to overcome the advantages which an incumbent president has in television and newspaper space.

For President Johnson on January 17 had an hour of television time on all three networks simultaneously. The Republicans, of course, have not picked their presidential candidate yet, but they were offered "equal time" on the same night by the Columbia Broadcasting Company. They were not in a position to put on their replies so quickly and accepted "equal time" for a program a week later.

It may well be assumed that President Johnson had a bigger advantage by far than did the 17 Republicans in their rebuttal on Jan. 24. But the Republican speakers did make a deep impression.

One reason for this was that they offered a variety of speakers—eight senators and nine representatives—each of whom talked approximately two minutes. Their speeches were succinct and to the point. Mrs. Charlotte T. Reid, Representative from Illinois, whose son is in Vietnam, deplored protests and disunity and dramatically called for support of the war by the American people so that the lives which have been lost in Vietnam will not have been "sacrificed in vain." She made an obvious imprint on the audience of several hundred—mostly members of Congress and their wives—who were seated in the auditorium of the Senate office building. They applauded with unmistakable earnestness.

The Republican speakers chosen for the program were for the most part from the younger group in Congress. All of the participants made it a point to use simple English to express themselves in words that listeners in the television audience could understand, since many persons are not intimately familiar with public affairs.

While former President Eisenhower started off the program with the statement that the times are as critical as any he has known, he did not deal with specific questions, as did other speakers who followed him. Senator George Murphy of California, a former actor, who was the moderator of the TV presentation, made his introductions and comments with good showmanship.

There can be little doubt that those who watched the program thought that, on the whole, it was a very interesting and effective response to the "State of the Union" message of the President. But it may well be conjectured that the audience a week after Mr. Johnson's address was delivered and over the one network was just a fraction of those who heard the President's own appearance.

Millions of people did not even know until afterwards that the program was on TV. No such advance publicity was given it as the President enjoyed. This is not surprising, as presidents make more news and get far more space than their opposition.

In the newspapers, the attention given to the Republican TV program was relatively little. Mr. Johnson probably was noticed by even more readers the same morning when a picture appeared on the sports pages showing him receiving a baseball bat from a player who starred last October in the World Series.

Representative Gerald Ford, House minority leader, has called for a debate during the campaign between the President and the Republican presidential nominee so that both sides may be heard at the same time. Undoubtedly there will be pressure for a confrontation such as occurred in 1960 between Senator Kennedy and Vice President Nixon after each was nominated for the presidency.

Although the Republicans did make an interesting broadcast, they would have been much better off if they could have put on Messrs. Nixon, Rockefeller, Romney and Reagan and if they had been given time by all three networks to present their case, perhaps a few days after the President's own appearance.

Korean Episode Is Peanuts Compared With N. Viet Guessing

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Trying to guess at this moment what the North Koreans and the North Vietnamese Communists are up to is like trying to guess why Santa Claus always looks fat. It's a bit of a fantasy.

The reason is simple: Nothing positive has been disclosed yet about the motives behind their most recent actions.

This week the North Koreans captured the USS Pueblo, a Navy intelligence-gathering ship loaded with electronics, and her crew of 81 plus two civilians off the Korean coast. You really need a crystal ball on this one.

One idea comes to mind immediately: That the capture was part of a plot worked out with North Vietnam to add to the pressure on this country to make peace in Vietnam, for otherwise it might be faced with a war in Korea, too.

But before any guess is sensible one question has to be answered beyond dispute, and that hasn't happened yet: Was the American ship in international waters, where she would have a right to be, or was she in Korean territorial waters, spying on Korea?

There's not much doubt about the spying. The ship was equipped for that. The North Koreans say the Pueblo was in their territorial waters and issued what they say is a "confession" by the American skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd Mark Bucher, admitting his ship was spying with in Korean territorial waters. The Defense Department quickly called the alleged "confession" a "travesty on the facts" and that, judging by the kind of language used, Bucher couldn't have written the kind of statement attributed to him.

Christian Less Positive
But — at the White House secretary, George Christian, was something less than positive about where the ship was.

"To the best of our information," Christian said, it was in international waters. He refused to be more positive.

This brings up the memory of the American U-2 spy plane shot down over the Soviet Union in 1960 during the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. This government at first denied the plane was on a spy mission, tried to say it was simply gathering weather information.

The Soviets had too much evidence and a few days later the United States admitted the plane had been spying. But the guessing on this Korean episode is peanuts compared with some of the guessing about North Vietnam.

North Vietnam believes public feeling in this country is so intensely antiwar that Johnson is bound to be defeated in this year's election and that then maybe business can be done with his Republican successor.

Until then, as this particular guess sees it, the North Vietnamese have decided they must continue the war doggedly. But there's a soft spot in this thinking.

Three Back LBJ in War
Of the four Republicans talked of as possible presidential candidates, three are generally behind Johnson on the war. They are former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The fourth, Michigan's Gov. George Romney, has been all over the lot on the war but very recently backed Johnson on continued bombing of the North.

All kinds of hocus pocus can be read into North Vietnam's persistent refusal to accept Johnson's condition for ending the bombing: That the North must give some assurance it would then be willing to talk peace quickly.

What could be the motives behind the refusal. Several come to mind:

That the North Vietnamese are not anxious to end the war; that the longer the war, the more antiwar sentiment in this country will pressure Johnson into making concessions; or that they're just mumbling about peace to make themselves look good in the eyes of the world.

Drew Pearson Says Pueblo Commander Thought North Koreans Were Bluffing

There is no ship in the U. S. Navy which the Defense Department would have less likely to have fallen into enemy hands the USS Pueblo, crammed as it was with sophisticated electronic devices.

The reasons why nearby U. S. planes and ships did not come to its rescue, or why Commander Lloyd M. Bucher surrendered without a struggle, or without scuttling her, are now under intensive, indignant investigation. The last time an American commander gave up his ship without a fight was the USS Chesapeake in 1812, and he was court-martialed afterwards.

Some of the reasons for the incident can now be described as follows:

1. Reason why commander did not call for help was because he thought the North Koreans were bluffing. He didn't dream there would be a communist seizure of an American naval vessel in international waters, so didn't take the warning seriously.

Actually there were two hours in which he could have called for help, and there were about a hundred air force fighters and fighter bombers in both South Korea and Japan which could have responded at a moment's notice.

The reason why Commander Bucher did not finally scuttle the ship when he saw the North Koreans coming alongside with a patrol boat to board the Pueblo was because he blew up electronic equipment instead. Apparently he thought this was sufficient, though some of his superiors in Washington Disagree. There has been no explanation of why he didn't drop his anchor and foul his rudder.

2. Reason why the Pueblo was off the Korean coast was to locate Russian nuclear submarines. Russia has 350 submarines, of which 40 are nuclear, and we have refined devices which can not only locate them but tell what kind of vessels they are. The Pueblo was watching for Soviet submarines out of Vladivostok.

Actually she was not 25 miles off the North Korean coast, as officially stated, but 16 miles, which is four miles outside the 12-mile limit.

Soviet Spying
The Russian navy uses fishing trawlers to do exactly the same type of spying on our Polaris submarines as we do on them. Their trawlers are located off the Florida coast, where they watch missiles fired from Cape Kennedy; off Roto, the big U. S. naval base in Spain; Holy Loch, the American base in Scotland; and off Guam in the mid-Pacific.

Both the Soviet and the American strategy is to try to locate nuclear submarines which normally lie for about 30 days at a time off the potential enemy's coast.

The Polaris missiles on our nuclear submarines and on the Russian submarines must be calibrated before they leave port, in order to hit certain targets on land. It is impossible to change the calibration after a submarine starts its cruise. Therefore the missiles must be fired after the sub reaches certain exact spots under the ocean where it lies on guard for periods of about 30 days. It is important for each nation, therefore, in its game of submarine hide-and-seek, to locate these spots in which case the sub could be knocked out of commission the minute war breaks.

3. Reason for seizing the USS Pueblo was the North Korean policy, which it has urged on other communist nations, of diversionary tactics. North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung has argued that the best way to help the North Vietnamese is to divert American worry to problems elsewhere in the world. To this end North Korea has instigated well over 500 incidents along the border between North and South Korea during 1967 alone—an increase of about 500 per cent over 1966.

"All the socialist countries should form the broadest possible anti-American united front," said Premier Kim last month, "and administer collective blows to the United States in all regions."

Russia and Retaliation
It is not believed that Moscow entirely shares this viewpoint, nor that it had any knowledge of North Korean plans to seize the Pueblo.

There is a clique in the Kremlin, however, which is known to believe that the only way to pressure the United States into giving up the war in Vietnam is by applying pressure in other parts of the world, such as the Near East. The buildup of Russian naval forces in the Mediterranean, and the tremendous concentration of Soviet arms in Egypt and Syria, together with Russian moves to take over Britain's evacuated bases east of Suez, are believed part of this pressure strategy.

With or without Kremlin approval, it is believed there will be more diversionary tactics against the United States as the war in South Vietnam intensifies.

Under discussion in the Defense Department has been retaliatory action against the Soviet Union. Among other things, the question of seizing Soviet trawlers off the American coast has been proposed.

Also under discussion has been the strategy of asking Generalissimo Franco of Spain, who has plenty of Soviet electronic trawlers lying off Roto, to haul one of them into port. Franco, however, has recently been getting cozy with Moscow, and he might not make the move.

The Pueblo was a different kind of ship than the USS Liberty, badly battered with 31 men killed, by Israel patrol boats and fighter planes last June. The Liberty, operated by the National Security Agency, was lying more than 15 miles off the Egyptian coast intercepting messages exchanged between Israeli forces and their command posts, and Egyptian forces with their commands.

Although Israelis claimed the attack on the Liberty was a case of mistaken identity, there was a deep suspicion in the Navy Department that the attack was deliberate.

The Pueblo was operated by the Navy itself, not the National Security Agency, and was not engaged in intercepting messages.

Clifford Selection
Every Secretary of Defense since the office was established in 1947 has represented the industrial-military alliance which President Eisenhower warned against in his last message to the American people. They have been either industrialists themselves or lawyers like Louis Johnson or bankers like James Forrestal representing big defense industries.

fense, Clark Clifford, is no exception.

The only real exception was Robert S. McNamara who, though head of the second largest motor company in the world—Ford—had been a teacher, was essentially humanitarian, and time after time bucked the alliance which Eisenhower warned against. McNamara's theory, which he successfully sold to LBJ, was that nuclear war was so catastrophic the only solution was not to increase our already bristling arsenal of missiles but to negotiate missile and nuclear agreements with Russia instead.

Time after time McNamara refused to spend the billions voted by Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S. C., and other hawks in Congress for atomic-powered aircraft carriers, the B-70 bomber and an anti-ballistic missile network. This eventually contributed to his downfall. The hawkish-minded politicians on Capitol Hill, plus the military-industrial alliance, packed too much of a punch with Congress.

Clark Clifford, on the other hand, has spent all of his career as a private attorney defending some of the defense giants. He has been on their side in their battles against the same U. S. government which he will now represent as Secretary of Defense.

Roll Call of Contractors

These clients have pulled down in the fiscal year 1967 the sum total of $1,890,200,000 in defense contracts plus $494,639,000 in research grants, all from Uncle Sam.

General Electric, in the fiscal year 1967, ranked fourth among the defense contractors of the nation, with a total of $1,289,800,000 in war orders. GE also received a gift from Uncle Sam a total of $439,090,000 for research and development.

Another of Clifford's clients, the Radio Corporation of America, received $288,000,000 in defense contracts, plus $54,429,000 in grants from Uncle Sam.

Du Pont received $179,600,000 in defense contracts, and $1,140,000 in grants for research.

Standard Oil of California, another Clifford client, received $152,800,000 in defense contracts.

Clifford has done a phenomenal job for these clients.

He helped to get Phillips Petroleum the right to build a refinery in Puerto Rico when all other oil companies were opposed.

He got the du Pont family's tax bill drastically reduced when they faced the prospect of paying Uncle Sam $470 million in taxes after the court decreed they had to sell their General Motors stock. This was done by an act of Congress.

Later, when General Motors stock went up in value, Clifford saved the du Pont family around $56 million additionally by persuading the Treasury to write a special tax ruling for the du Ponts.

Clifford has also represented the largest pipeline company in the world, El Paso Natural Gas, which three times has been cracked down on by the Supreme Court for trying to combine with Pacific Natural Gas. Somehow or other the battery of astute lawyers always got El Paso's dubious claims past a complacent Justice Department and a previously supine Federal Power Commission, now much improved. They were not successful, however, in lulling the Supreme Court.

Praises Businessmen

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Paul H. Douglas, the old warrior of battles fought for consumers during his days as a leading Senate liberal, appears to be mellowing.

In his new job as chairman of the National Commission on Urban Problems, he has found some nice things to say about both businessmen and local officials.

He says, for example, that anyone inclined to believe that all private businessmen "are only interested in making money, without regard for community conditions or social consequences," simply is not well-informed.

"And this would be at least as true for anyone who thinks that local officials do nothing unless or until they are shoved or helped by the federal government."

The former Illinois Senator made these observations in a speech at the 28th annual legislative conference of the National Association of Counties.

His commission, which has conducted a series of hearings around the country, has been deeply impressed, he said, with the "striking evidences of blight and deprivation that are to be found in so many cities."

But the commission was equally impressed, he added, by "the concern with urban problems that has been evident in the communities we have visited, and with the thinking and efforts that are being applied to such problems."

Douglas demonstrated, however, that he is still capable of criticism where he feels it is needed. For example, he described the building industry as one of "the most retarded" in the nation and complained of its high costs.

He suggested that prefabrication might be one answer to this problem. "It would reduce the total cost and time of construction and at the same time enable the poor to get more and better housing."

He also made these points:—The burden of housing for the poor should be shared between suburban areas and central cities.

—Each state should pass legislation enabling county building codes to supersede municipal building codes.

—It is a mistake to assume that problems of urban blight, poverty and deprivation are largely limited to negroes.

"While such conditions directly involve a considerably larger proportion of negro than of white families, there are in our metropolitan areas today more than twice as many white families as negro families with incomes below the poverty level."

He said that effective action to deal with urban problems "is likely to benefit, directly, at least as many white as negro citizens."

Douglas, who in "retirement" is still influential in congressional circles and also enjoys an exceptional entree at the White House, will be an effective spokesman this year for President Johnson's urban programs.

Atom Not Fail Safe, Clean Airers Told

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The atom may be the nation's power source of the future, but according to a guest speaker at last night's meeting of the Ulster County Citizens for Clean Air Committee, a great deal of research is needed to make the system fail-safe.

Larry Bogart, director of the New York Anti-Pollution League, addressed some 24 persons last night in the Ulster County Office Building. He pointed out that the dream of nuclear power has failed to reach reality in two important areas, safety and cost.

Bogart said that Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the federal Atomic Energy Commission, when asked if current nuclear power plants were absolutely safe, replied to the negative.

Requirements in Danger
Bogart, who spoke for some 45 minutes and then answered questions, began his presentation with the observation that the highest priority problem the nation faces is the need for clean air and clean water.

He said the average human being requires 16,000 quarts of clean air and 8 quarts of clean water per day. These two basic requirements are in danger of disappearing, according to Bogart.

He said there is hope for this area but pointed out that Southern California, for all practical purposes, has been destroyed by pollution and cannot be helped. Bogart told his audience that pollution in this area is a regional problem, not just a Mid-Hudson Valley problem.

He pointed out that the Kingston area gets a great deal of sulphur dioxide from factories in New York City, 92 miles away, especially when a southern wind is blowing.

Emphysema on Rise
Sulphur dioxide is one of the prime causes of emphysema, a disease of the lungs. Said Bogart, "In 1950 emphysema was a medical curiosity, but last year, 17,000 Americans died with the disease. And it's on the rise."

Bogart then gave a brief history of nuclear power plants. He said originally supporters of nuclear power saw it as the means for a vast supply of cheap, pollution-free power for the nation. "The program has fallen far short of its goals," Bogart said. "Of the 14 nuclear reactors built between 1954 and 1964 only three have justified their early promise. The government has spent $9 billion on these reactors."

Bogart pointed out that nuclear pollution would ultimately prove more dangerous and longer lasting than the standard forms of waste.

He spoke of 27 planned nuclear power plants at least twice as large as the 1954-64 variety that have yet to pass complete safety test. One of these plants will be located at Tivoli and built by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation.

Bogart admits to the need for a vast new supply of power and sees nuclear reactors as the most likely source. He does not, however, agree with current use of A-power. He urged further testing to establish complete safety of the plants and also to have them located underground.

The meeting was adjourned by acting president David Fletcher. Officers will be elected at next month's meeting, scheduled for Feb. 21 in the Ulster County Office Building.

The meeting was held at the Kingston Area Council of Churches met Thursday night at the parish house of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on the occasion of its regular monthly meeting. The Rev. William A. Studwell, president, presented a film, Almost Neighbors, depicting one community that faced serious conflict and the creative response that evolved.

Attention was called to the fact that the second meeting of the "Neighbors Concerned" group will be held in the Trinity Methodist Church, Feb. 6. This represents an attempt by representatives of several community organizations to initiate a local, non-profit organization which would qualify for federal assistance in providing housing for low income families. Resnick's Office Says It Ain't So

In a belated reaction to a Kingston Freeman story that appeared on Jan. 23, the New York City office of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick stated that the Ellenville Democrat had been misquoted and "quoted out of context."

Under front page headline that read, "Resnick Critical of Dem Chairman Burns," the Congressman was reported to have called Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns "a Kennedy messenger boy," and that he demanded the chairman "support LBJ or resign."

A Resnick spokesman said that the "messenger boy" quote was drawn out of context and that the real statement was to the effect that one of Burns' functions was "to take messages from the state committee to the people" and that what the state chairman seemed to be doing was taking messages from Senator Robert F. Kennedy to the people. As for the alleged charge that Burns "support LBJ or resign," the Congressman's spokesman declared that Resnick actually said that if he were state chairman he would resign if he was unable to support the President.

The statements reportedly were made at an Albany cocktail party held on Monday evening.

In a letter sent to Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick called upon the New York leader to make a stand on the so-called "Dump Johnson" movement, and the New York City office of the Congressman claimed The Freeman had misquoted Resnick in a Jan. 23 story.

The Resnick letter, dated Jan. 23, stated that, "The President has been under attack by some members of his own party," and it asked why the State Committee "has kept strangely silent."

No Response
The Ellenville Democrat went on to say, "From the beginning of the anti-Johnson campaign to the present day, the State Committee has never responded to, or refuted these attacks against him. It has gagged itself. And this self-imposed gag is creating an atmosphere of confusion and disunity among Democratic voters not only in New York State, but throughout the country."

Resnick claimed that Democrats "want to know whether the State Committee is backing the President or Senator (Eugene) McCarthy and others who have broken with Mr. Johnson."

The Congressman declared to Burns, "I strongly urge you, in the names of Democratic unity, to call a meeting of the State Committee at the earliest possible moment in order to permit every member to vote on a resolution expressing the Committee's position in the Presidential race."

Resnick said that "such a step would not stifle dissent," but would encourage fair and open discussion of this crucial issue.

The Congressman's New York City office, in a communication with The Freeman yesterday, stated that a Jan. 23 story, headlined "Resnick Critical of Dem Chairman Burns," claimed that Resnick had been misquoted and "quoted out of context."

The quotes had Resnick charging Burns with being "a Kennedy messenger boy" and that he demanded the Chairman "support LBJ or resign."

In the belated response to the story, the Resnick spokesman said that the "messenger boy" quote was drawn out of context and that the real statement was to the effect that one of Burns' functions was "to take messages from the State Committee to the people" and that what the state chairman seemed to be doing was taking messages from Senator Robert F. Kennedy to the people.

As for the alleged charge that Burns "support LBJ or resign," the Congressman's spokesman declared that Resnick actually said that if he were state chairman he would resign if he was unable to support the President.

The statements reportedly were made at an Albany cocktail party held on Monday evening.

Sheltered Workshop

Care, Training Stressed

Care of the retarded child through all stages of development, from the beginning when he first shows limitations and the need for intense individual training, was stressed by a Sheltered Workshop speaker, Dr. Herbert Goldstein last night.

Chairman of the special education department at Yeshiva University, the doctor drew on his broad experience and first hand knowledge of workshops throughout the country to illustrate what the needs of the mentally retarded child are as well as prerequisites for a workshop environment. "We can't bring these youngsters into a workshop until they have the necessary social, physical and academic skills,"

Early Training Advised
He stressed therefore the earliest of training in order to avoid future dropouts saying the workshop must be viewed only in relation to the total child.

The meeting took place at the Association for Retarded Children office, 1 Van Buren Street at Broadway.

Warren Russell, Ulster County Chapter president of the retarded children's group, said a sheltered workshop should not be confused with the Halfway House for retarded under consideration for locating at 170 Albany Avenue.

He said the county chapter recognizes the need for the Halfway House, which would provide a residence for those who are able to work in low skill jobs in the community.

Different Purpose
A sheltered workshop serves a different purpose, he explained. "It provides a place for work for seriously retarded persons who live at home and who are unable to work in the community. These retarded adults must be very carefully protected from persons who would take advantage of them. The Halfway House residents would be more able to protect themselves and would be capable at various jobs. A sheltered workshop would give the seriously retarded in our community a place to earn limited wages, among friends throughout a lifetime."

Russell estimated that there are well over 100 persons in Ulster County who would benefit from the sheltered workshop program.

Accord Party Is Scheduled Tonight

The Strawberry Rush, a rock 'n' roll band, will throw a rent party, in which over 200 persons are expected to attend, at an ancient Revolutionary War era house near the Accord Speedway tonight.

The party, according to a spokesman, will feature "two or three bands," a light show, beads and various handicrafts. The old house is about two miles from the Accord Speedway in Lyonsville on the speedway road.

Strawberry Rush includes Steve Oppenheim and Albert Ciappa of New York City, Bert Levine of Brooklyn, and Patrick O'Connor of England.

Grape vines may produce fruit for 100 years if they are given proper care.

Names Sought of Ex-KHSers Now in Viet

The names of former Kingston High School servicemen now serving in Vietnam have been requested by a high school committee which hopes to send copies of the school yearbook to the men.

Eugene Loughlin, a teacher at the high school, and a member of the committee, said that, "We want the names of servicemen who will be in Vietnam in June, because that's when the yearbook (called The Maroon) comes out."

Fifty names have been collected so far, according to Loughlin, and he added that the deadline for the acceptance of names is Jan. 31.

Atom Not Fail Safe, Clean Airers Told

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The atom may be the nation's power source of the future, but according to a guest speaker at last night's meeting of the Ulster County Citizens for Clean Air Committee, a great deal of research is needed to make the system fail-safe.

Larry Bogart, director of the New York Anti-Pollution League, addressed some 24 persons last night in the Ulster County Office Building. He pointed out that the dream of nuclear power has failed to reach reality in two important areas, safety and cost.

Bogart said that Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the federal Atomic Energy Commission, when asked if current nuclear power plants were absolutely safe, replied to the negative.

Requirements in Danger
Bogart, who spoke for some 45 minutes and then answered questions, began his presentation with the observation that the highest priority problem the nation faces is the need for clean air and clean water.

He said the average human being requires 16,000 quarts of clean air and 8 quarts of clean water per day. These two basic requirements are in danger of disappearing, according to Bogart.

He said there is hope for this area but pointed out that Southern California, for all practical purposes, has been destroyed by pollution and cannot be helped.

Bogart told his audience that pollution in this area is a regional problem, not just a Mid-Hudson Valley problem.

He pointed out that the Kingston area gets a great deal of sulphur dioxide from factories in New York City, 92 miles away, especially when a southern wind is blowing.

Emphysema on Rise
Sulphur dioxide is one of the prime causes of emphysema, a disease of the lungs. Said Bogart, "In 1950 emphysema was a medical curiosity, but last year, 17,000 Americans died with the disease. And it's on the rise."

Bogart then gave a brief history of nuclear power plants. He said originally supporters of nuclear power saw it as the means for a vast supply of cheap, pollution-free power for the nation. "The program has fallen far short of its goals," Bogart said. "Of the 14 nuclear reactors built between 1954 and 1964 only three have justified their early promise. The government has spent $9 billion on these reactors."

Bogart pointed out that nuclear pollution would ultimately prove more dangerous and longer lasting than the standard forms of waste.

He spoke of 27 planned nuclear power plants at least twice as large as the 1954-64 variety that have yet to pass complete safety test. One of these plants will be located at Tivoli and built by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation.

Bogart admits to the need for a vast new supply of power and sees nuclear reactors as the most likely source. He does not, however, agree with current use of A-power. He urged further testing to establish complete safety of the plants and also to have them located underground.

The meeting was adjourned by acting president David Fletcher. Officers will be elected at next month's meeting, scheduled for Feb. 21 in the Ulster County Office Building.

The executive committee of the Kingston Area Council of Churches met Thursday night at the parish house of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on the occasion of its regular monthly meeting. The Rev. William A. Studwell, president, presented a film, Almost.

Neighbors, depicting one community that faced serious conflict and the creative response that evolved. Attention was called to the fact that the second meeting of the "Neighbors Concerned" group will be held in the Trinity Methodist Church, Feb. 6. This represents an attempt by representatives of several community organizations to initiate a local, non-profit organization which would qualify for federal assistance in providing housing for low income families. Resnick's Office Says It Ain't So

In a belated reaction to a Kingston Freeman story that appeared on Jan. 23, the New York City office of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick stated that the Ellenville Democrat had been misquoted and "quoted out of context."

Under front page headline that read, "Resnick Critical of Dem Chairman Burns," the Congressman was reported to have called Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns a "Kennedy messenger boy."

That he demanded the chairman "support LBJ or resign." A Resnick spokesman said that the "messenger boy" quote was drawn out of context and that the real statement was to the effect that one of Burns' functions was "to take messages from the state committee to the people" and that what the state chairman seemed to be doing was taking messages from Senator Robert F. Kennedy to the people.

The Resnick letter, dated Jan. 23, stated that, "The President has been under attack by some members of his own party" and it asked why the State Committee "has kept strangely silent."

No Response
The Ellenville Democrat went on to say, "From the beginning of the anti-Johnson campaign to the present day, the State Committee has never responded to, or refuted these attacks against him. It has gagged itself. And this self-imposed gag is creating an atmosphere of confusion and disunity among Democratic voters not only in New York State, but throughout the country."

Resnick claimed that Democrats "want to know whether the State Committee is backing the President or Senator (Eugene) McCarthy and others who have broken with Mr. Johnson."

The Congressman declared to Burns, "I strongly urge you, in the names of Democratic unity, to call a meeting of the State Committee at the earliest possible moment in order to permit every member to vote on a resolution expressing the Committee's position in the Presidential race."

Doctor's Mailbag

PERIODIC CHECKUPS HELP THE ASTHMA SUFFERER

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q—In the last three years, my husband has suffered with asthma. As a result of allergy tests, his doctor told him to avoid a long list of foods. I am going crazy trying to find things for him to eat. How effective is the operation in which the carotid body in the neck is removed? The pills he is taking help some, but he still has a bad cough. What do you recommend?

A—The operation mentioned was at first greeted with enthusiasm. Some patients were apparently benefited, but most surgeons have had such poor results with the operation that they no longer recommend it. More recently, good results have been reported with a special apparatus for intermittent positive pressure breathing. A new device for the inhalation of negative ions, also experimental, shows some promise.

Q—Is there any truth in the common belief that a Chihuahua dog will help asthma?

A—Since the inhalation of animal dander is a common cause of asthma, I would be more inclined to believe that a Chihuahua would help you get asthma.

Q—I have been taking Decadron for asthma. Will it cause any bad side effects?

A—This drug is closely related to cortisone. When used for prolonged periods, it may cause peptic ulcer, moonface, decalcification and collapse of the spine, insomnia and bleeding in the skin. Anyone taking this drug should have periodic checkups.

Q—Could a bad reaction to the Salk vaccine cause an allergy to eggs?

Q—What causes sneezing spells? What can be done to control them?

A—Anything that irritates the mucous membrane of the nose will cause sneezing. Other causes include allergy, head colds and, in some persons, sitting in a draft. The best control is to remove the cause, if possible. Sometimes a sneeze can be suppressed by hard pressure on the skin below your nose.

Q—For three or four years, I have had a neuroma on the sole of my right foot. My doctor advised a metatarsal arch support. This gives me only partial relief. Will it go away by itself if I stay off my feet as much as I can and wear roomy shoes? If it isn't removed, will it become cancerous?

A—Your nerve tumor will not disappear spontaneously and will not become cancerous. If it is very painful it should be removed.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

New Exhibit for UCCC Gallery Hall

Fifty-four photographs, offering an unusually romantic look at "Europe Backroads," will be exhibited at Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge, from Jan. 29 to Feb. 24.

The exhibit, entitled "Travel in Europe," will be on display in Gallery Hall in the John Burroughs Science Building. Hours for the public are 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Fridays.

The photographs were taken by Dr. Richard E. Peterson, an associate professor of art and currently the acting chairman of the Art Division at the State University College at New Paltz. They are some of the many pictures Dr. Peterson has taken on his travels through Europe.

From 1959 to 1961, Dr. Peterson, his wife, Wilma Insen Peterson, and his two daughters, Lynn and Bonnie, lived in Heidelberg, Germany, where Dr. Peterson taught for the Army's Dependence Education Group and also taught University of Maryland extension courses.

Using this lovely German town as a "base of operations," the family visited some 14 countries, going off in a new direction for each holiday. They would spend Christmas in Spain or Berchtesgaden and Easter in Rome or Holland. Most of the time, weather permitting, they would camp along the way.

Dr. Peterson has had extensive experience in using photography as a creative media for teaching.

He began his photography career in the Army during World War II, where he served as an art director for making film strips. In that capacity he came in contact with numerous professional photographers for Howard Hughes.

After the war, Dr. Peterson went into education and used photography in teaching. He designed a course in photography as a creative media while at Columbia University, then used photography in teaching high school and college courses for many years. The colleges have included the University of California and the State University College at New Paltz.

While on his travels, Dr. Peterson has taken numerous photographs that he has used for his art history course.

Dr. Peterson has a BS degree from Edinboro State Teachers College and MS and EdD degree from Teachers College, Columbia University.

Area College Student Wins Scholarship

Donald F. Covert of Saugerties, a student at State University Agricultural and Technical College at Alfred, is the recipient of a $100 scholarship from the Tri-County Nurserymen's Association.

Established in 1966, this scholarship is awarded annually to an Alfred Tech student from Rockland, Orange, or Ulster County who is enrolled in the landscape development field. Award winners are selected on the basis of academic requirements established by the college scholarship committee.

A 1966 graduate of Saugerties High School, he is a senior landscape design major at Alfred State College. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Covert of Route 3, Saugerties.

"RED BALLOON" FILM — Mrs. Stanley Plasker is shown here inviting Wanda LaBounty and Alexander Zamm to view the film, "Red Balloon," at the Kingston City Library on Friday, Feb. 2. This film will be the first in a series of programs to be sponsored by the Kingston Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women. It is a fantasy about a boy who makes friends with a balloon. He plays with it in the streets of Montmartre and tries unsuccessfully to escape the gang of urchins who want to destroy it. There is no narration but the sights, sounds and mood of Paris are artfully captured. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Saratoga Arts Elects Officers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Board of Directors of the Saratoga Performing Arts Center has elected Newman E. Wait Jr., president of the Adirondack Trust Co. of Saratoga Springs, as the center's new president.

Wait, who had served as treasurer of the center, was named Tuesday to succeed Gene Robb, publisher of the Albany Times-Union and The Knickerbocker News.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt was elected treasurer and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, wife of the governor, reelected as chairman of the board.

Also reelected were John Hay Whitney, vice president, and Charles LeBelle, secretary.

The board of directors, in a meeting at the Governor's Mansion here, also elected 12 new directors. They are:

Paul Miller of Rochester, president of The Associated Press; Frank Wells McCabe, an Albany banker; Hollis Harrington, an Albany banker; Lincoln Kirstein of the New York City Ballet; Thomas J. Deegan of New York, a public relations executive; Ernest B. Morris, president of Saratoga Raceway; Dr. Hans Rosendahl of Schenectady, a medical consultant in General Electric research; Edgar M. Bronfman of New York; Gerard S. Smith of New York; Lewis A. Swyer, an Albany banker; and David L. Yulich, president of Macy's of New York, and Charles Dake of Saratoga, a dairy executive.

Welcome Wagon Group Views Slides of Area

The Welcome Wagon Club of Kingston held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 16, at the YWCA at which time Tex Roy of the New York State Telephone Company gave an "Historical Tour of the Hudson Valley" through the use of slides. Particular emphasis was placed on the area immediately surrounding Kingston which was of special interest to the Club as Welcome Wagon members are newcomers to the community. Mrs. Robert Schneider, special interests chairman, announced that a gardening group is being formed, and Orvil Norman of the Kingston Garden Center has consented to meet with the group to provide guidance on proper gardening. Persons interested in this group should contact Mrs. Schneider.

A social hour was held after the meeting and serving as hostesses were Miss Gaynelle Applegate, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Denis McLane, and Mrs. Eugene Bedard.

At the next Club meeting on February 20, the ways and means committee will conduct a miscellaneous sale. Members are asked to bring any articles in good condition they wish to donate for the sale. Proceeds from the sale will be used by the club for service projects which will benefit the community.

Welcome Wagon is a service club for women who are newcomers to the community, and membership is open to all who have received a visit from an area Welcome Wagon hostess. Further information may be obtained by contacting either Mrs. Charles Selzo, area hostess, or Mrs. Joseph Colen, assistant hostess.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

When eating out at a drive-in—especially if you have a batch of children—don't all order hamburgers or tuna fish sandwiches. Mix them up a little!

Last weekend we did this. I ordered tuna fish, my daughter got roast beef and my husband a hamburger. We asked that they either cut them in half or bring us a knife to cut them with.

Then we each had half a tuna sandwich and half a hamburger or roast beef. They do say that variety is the spice of life, you know!

Now, as another little afterthought, if you wrap your oldest paring knife in a paper napkin and keep it in your glove compartment, you can cut your own sandwiches anytime. Either in halves or fourths. And just think, if there are more than three in the family, it will really be like eating from a party plate.

Dear Heloise:

I made a little bag out of gauze, put some paste wax in it and kept it in a jar.

Anytime there's a drawer or door that sticks, I just rub it with this wax bag.

I like it better than soap because it doesn't crumble, and wax helps seal out the dampness which is usually the cause of drawers sticking because the wood swells.

..... Mrs. W. M. J.

Dear Heloise:

When we have TV dinners, I save the aluminum foil from the top of the trays, wash it and use it to wrap my baking potatoes.

..... Zula Evans

Dear Heloise:

I have a good use for those junior-size baby food jars.

I keep all my mending supplies in one: Such as small assorted color spools of mending thread, needles, a pair of small scissors, and a little square of felt for pins.

I also use this same baby food jar as my darned egg!

Because I'm the mother of three small children, I have to keep one step ahead of them. This way I have all my sewing supplies inside my improvised darned egg with the top screws on too tight for them to open.

..... Judy Cottrell

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever have green peppers "fall apart at the seams" when you were cleaning them for stuffing?

Next time, after cutting off the top with a knife, try using your kitchen scissors to remove the membrane and seed part.

..... Wilma

Dear Heloise:

For sending candy and cookies to relatives or friends overseas, I used a small styrofoam ice bucket.

I packed the ice bucket full of cookies and candy. Then sealed it shut with masking tape and wrapped it.

Y-Wives Meet; Will Plan Fashion Show

Mrs. Fred Burnett, president of the Y-Wives, conducted the first meeting of the new year Thursday evening, Jan. 18.

Mrs. David Van Etten announced that Jim Thompson, local area radio broadcaster, would be speaker at the February 1 meeting. Members may bring a guest.

Mrs. William Schreiber of the service committee asked that club members interested in making knitted slippers and bibs for the infirmity patients, should contact her for instructions.

The spring fashion show has been tentatively set for April. Mrs. Frank DiPietro will give details at the February meeting.

A highlight of the evening was the annual miscellaneous sale, conducted by the Mmes. Fred Schoonmaker and Robert Clemmons, which realized a large amount for the club's treasury.

Refreshments were served by the Mmes. William Barnes, Robert Clemmons, Thomas Palmer and William Schreiber. Those who attended were the Mmes. William Barnes, Fred Burnett, Frank DiPietro, Orr Giles, Carl Nordstrom, E. Ronald O'Neil, Vernon Outwater, Thomas Palmer, Herbert Reuner, Ronald Rifenburg, William Schreiber, Raymond Peterson, Fred Schoonmaker, David Van Etten, Paul Giannuzzi, Robert Murray, Roger Murray, Carl Genna and Robert Clemmons. The YWCA is a member of the Community Chest.

Miss Judith Ann Sickler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sickler, RD 2, Box 537G, Saugerties, was married to John Allen Freer, son of Mrs. Gordon Kenney, 22 Vine Street, Beacon, on Saturday, Jan. 13, at Wicoppee Community Methodist Church.

The Rev. George Thornton of Rochester Methodist Church officiated at the double ring ceremony assisted by the Rev. Roger Hallock of Wicoppee Community Methodist Church. Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white lace street length dress with a white fur pillbox hat and a white orchid corsage. Miss Marja Hart, Kingston, was maid of honor. She wore a yellow street length dress with white accessories. Sam Walker, Islington, Ontario, Canada, was best man. After the wedding a reception was held at Talbot's Inn, Pleasant Valley.

The bride, a graduate of Roy Beacon High School, will graduate from Rochester Institute of Technology where he is majoring in photography. Mr. and Mrs. Freer will reside at 1060 Main Street, East Rochester.

In the midst of January's snow and ice, the Northern Dutchess Hospital Women's Auxiliary is making plans for a spring dessert card party.

Mrs. John Baker, auxiliary president and general chairman, said the party is scheduled for 8 a. m., Friday, May 17, at the Beckman Arms Rhinebeck. She emphasized that everyone is expected to bring his own cards or games.

Doctor's Mailbag

PERIODIC CHECKUPS HELP THE ASTHMA SUFFERER

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q—In the last three years, my husband has suffered with asthma. As a result of allergy tests, his doctor told him to avoid a long list of foods. I am going crazy trying to find things for him to eat. How effective is the operation in which the carotid body in the neck is removed? The pills he is taking help some, but he still has a bad cough. What do you recommend?

A—The operation mentioned was at first greeted with enthusiasm. Some patients were apparently benefited, but most surgeons have had such poor results with the operation that they no longer recommend it. More recently, good results have been reported with a special apparatus for intermittent positive pressure breathing. A new device for the inhalation of negative ions, also experimental, shows some promise.

Q—Is there any truth in the common belief that a Chihuahua dog will help asthma?

A—Since the inhalation of animal dander is a common cause of asthma, I would be more inclined to believe that a Chihuahua would help you get asthma.

Q—I have been taking Decadron for asthma. Will it cause any bad side effects?

A—This drug is closely related to cortisone. When used for prolonged periods, it may cause peptic ulcer, moonface, decalcification and collapse of the spine, insomnia and bleeding in the skin. Anyone taking this drug should have periodic checkups.

Q—Could a bad reaction to the Salk vaccine cause an allergy to eggs?

Q—What causes sneezing spells? What can be done to control them?

A—Anything that irritates the mucous membrane of the nose will cause sneezing. Other causes include allergy, head colds and, in some persons, sitting in a draft. The best control is to remove the cause, if possible. Sometimes a sneeze can be suppressed by hard pressure on the skin below your nose.

Q—For three or four years, I have had a neuroma on the sole of my right foot. My doctor advised a metatarsal arch support. This gives me only partial relief. Will it go away by itself if I stay off my feet as much as I can and wear roomy shoes? If it isn't removed, will it become cancerous?

A—Your nerve tumor will not disappear spontaneously and will not become cancerous. If it is very painful it should be removed.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Deadline Nearing for Contest

There are only five days left Box 143-L, Kingston: Jennifer to enter the 1968 Page One Terwilliger, 30 Arlmont Street, Valentine Contest. To date 44 Kingston; Carolyn Lee Hyde, area young ladies have become RD 2, Box 253, Kingston; Barbara Ann King, Box 109, Route 5, Kingston; Barbara L. Greene, Mt. Pleasant.

Newest entries include: Leonora Pringle, Third Street, Connelly; Brenda Joyce Vedder, Nurses' Residence, Kingston Hospital; Cheryl Anne Lang, 15 Browning Terrace, Kingston; Barbara Rucki, Vly Road, Stone Ridge; Bette Jean Weisman, 83-A Fairmont Avenue, Kingston; Katherine L. Langjan, Kerhonkson; Linda Yerry, RFD 5, Box 129, Kingston.

Also Sharon Margaret Quinn, 20 Country Club Drive, Mt. Marion; Charlene Heldon, 163 Lampman Avenue, Port Ewen; Helen Jeanne Smith, Route 3,

Entries will be accepted until Wednesday, Jan. 31, at which time a panel of judges will select six finalists whose photos will appear in the Freeman along with a ballot. The public will then vote for the girl of their choice as Page One Valentine Queen for 1968.

Lovely gifts and honors will be presented to the lucky winner. In addition her photo will appear on the front page of this paper on Valentine's Day.

To enter the contest any single girl between the ages

One Valentine Contest, Kingston, N. Y. All pictures become the property of this newspaper. Relatives of Freeman employees are ineligible.

Ballots will be counted on February 12 and the selected Queen will begin her reign on February 14.

Imagine . . . YOUR photo on page one of the newspaper. And just think of the beautiful crown, the lovely gown and numerous gifts just waiting to be claimed. And it's so very simple to become a contestant . . . no interviews necessary, no expensive clothing for competition, no special talents required . . . only a wallet-size picture needed. Could anything be easier?

CONTESTANTS Dorothy Cheryl Metcalf and Sally Lou Moore stopped in at The Freeman yesterday to get a sneak preview of the many certificates and gifts waiting for the winner of the Page One Valentine Contest now in progress. By the looks of it, each would be happy to claim the crown along with the 46 entries received to date. Six finalists will be chosen by the judges on February 1 but the public will vote for the queen. It isn't too late to get that picture in—deadline is January 31. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Design Awards Go to Modernists

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This year's product design awards of the American Institute of Interior Designers are limited to designs submitted in the modern manner.

But many designs seem familiar because they are inspired by traditional things.

The kaleidoscope provides colorful interest for new vinyl flooring from the design studio of Natalie Marcus.

Greek Island of Kalymnos.

In decorative accessories, the time capsule is reduced to size in a digital clock cylinder of satin aluminum with rosewood ends and a base that is electrically operated. It was designed by the Howard Miller staff.

A modern dinnerware design by Heinz Engler derives inspiration from the sphere and circle.

Verner Pantan's z-chair reminds one of the old-fashioned sculptured rocking chair. Its design impact lies in a single unit of molded fiber glass which controls the subtly shaped contours.

So, too with the Frenchman, Olivier Mourgue's chaise longue. There have been undulating chaises, even for the outdoors, but Mourgue's is based on a unique construction process—steel tubing that supports rubber webbing and synthetic foam for comfort with a zippered two-way stretch fabric.

Pucci won an award for his colorful new towel designs. Joe Colombo's lamp—a sleek metal shade on a slim pole—earned an award. The other winner saw a circular planter bench by Elsie Crawford, a pin-stripe vinyl wall covering, a window wall by the late Peter Muller-Munk, a fabric by Maija Isola of Finland. Five of the 13 winning designs are European.

Olive Republican Club Holds Election

Election of officers took place at the annual meeting of the Olive Republican Club which was held Saturday, Jan. 13. Elected were John T. Molloy, president; Walter Lang, vice president; Charlotte Smith, secretary; August Hansen, treasurer; LeeRoy Crosswell, William Kassar and Al Giunditta, representatives for District 1, 2 and 3.

President Molloy announced that the annual installation of officers dinner and dance would be held Saturday, Feb. 10, at Olivebridge firehall. Make Quick Meals With Perch Amandine

Got the meal time blues? Cheer up. Next time you're really stumped and can't decide what to serve, try this recipe for Perch Amandine—a new and different way to serve perch filets. To make Perch Amandine you will need:

PERCH AMANDINE

1 one pound package Booth Frozen Ocean Perch Filets, defrosted lemon juice

6 tablespoons butter or oil

½ cup sliced almonds

salt, pepper, chopped parsley

Dip filets in lemon juice and then in flour. Sauté in butter or oil until delicately browned on both sides. Remove to a hot platter. Add the sliced almonds and serve. Serves 4-6.

Helpful Hints

Crisp rice cereal and marshmallows, melted with a little butter, make candy that children love.

To make a delicious sauce for ice cream or puddings, mix together cocoa, sugar, milk and a little salt. Heat until thickened; then add a little peanut butter.

Beet tops are high in nutritious value, and very tasty when cooked. Wash well and cook them the same as you do spinach or other greens. When they are tender, drain and serve with a sour cream sauce seasoned with a bit of horseradish, salt and pepper.

Sometimes, when the bottom of an aluminum pan has been heated excessively, there will be a resulting bulge. It can be removed by heating the pan slowly. When the pan is thoroughly hot, pound the bottom lightly with a hammer, flattening the bulges.

When you are in a hurry and have to mix cold shortening with an electric mixer, you can cut down on the mixing time by heating the beater blades in hot water for a few minutes first. This also keeps the cold, stiff shortening from clogging the blades.

Personal

A daughter, Allison Lynn Leuppert, was born to Lt. Col. and Mrs. Fred W. Leuppert, USA, student detachment, U. S. Army Command and General Staff College, 68 3rd Infantry Road, Fort Leavenworth, Kan. The girl weighed seven pounds and seven ounces at birth.

Paternal grandmother is Mrs. Katherine Leuppert, 71 Rinaldo Road, Northport, L. I. Maternal grandmother is Mrs. Mildred Brodessor, Route 1, Manorville, Saugerties.

Your family will dote on you when you make them a chocolate pie! So easy to do if you use a pie shell made from pastry mix and packaged chocolate pudding and pie filling mix. Before serving, top the pie with whipped cream and sprinkle with chocolate shot.

Deadline Nearing for Contest

Newest entries include: Leonora Pringle, Third Street, Connelly; Brenda Joyce Vedder, Nurses' Residence, Kingston Hospital; Cheryl Anne Lang, 15 Browning Terrace, Kingston; Barbara Rucki, Vly Road, Stone Ridge; Bette Jean Weisman, 83-A Fairmont Avenue, Kingston; Katherine L. Langjan, Kerhonkson; Linda Yerry, RFD 5, Box 129, Kingston; Also Sharon Margaret Quinn, 20 Country Club Drive, Mt. Marion; Charlene Heldron, 163 Lampman Avenue, Port Ewen; Helen Jeanne Smith, Route 3, Box 143-L, Kingston; Jennifer Terwilliger, 30 Arlmont Street, Kingston; Carolyn Lee Hyde, RD 2, Box 253, Kingston; Barbara Ann King, Box 109, Route 5, Kingston; Barbara L. Greene, Mt. Pleasant.

Entries will be accepted until Wednesday, Jan. 31, at which time a panel of judges will select six finalists whose photos will appear in the Freeman along with a ballot. The public will then vote for the girl of their choice as Page One Valentine Queen for 1968.

Lovely gifts and honors will be presented to the lucky winner. In addition her photo will appear on the front page of this paper on Valentine's Day.

To enter the contest any single girl between the ages

One Valentine Contest, Kingston, N. Y. All pictures become the property of this newspaper. Relatives of Freeman employees are ineligible.

Ballots will be counted on February 12 and the selected Queen will begin her reign on February 14.

Imagine . . . YOUR photo on page one of the newspaper. And just think of the beautiful crown, the lovely gown and numerous gifts just waiting to be claimed. And it's so very simple to become a contestant . . . no interviews necessary, no expensive clothing for competition, no special talents required . . . only a wallet-size picture needed. Could anything be easier?

17-21 should mail a wallet size age, parents, schools attended or place of employment, to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Page

Design Awards Go to Modernists

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This year's product design awards of the American Institute of Interior Designers are limited to designs submitted in the modern manner.

But many designs seem familiar because they are inspired by traditional things.

The kaleidoscope provides colorful interest for new vinyl flooring from the design studio of Natalie Marcus.

Greek Island of Kalymnos.

In decorative accessories, the time capsule is reduced to size in a digital clock cylinder of satin in aluminum with rosewood ends and a base that is electrically operated. It was designed by the Howard Miller staff.

A modern dinnerware design by Heinz Engler derives inspiration from the sphere and circle.

Verner Panton's z-chair reminds one of the old-fashioned sculptured rocking chair. Its design impact lies in a single unit of molded fiber glass which controls the subtly shaped contours.

So, too with the Frenchman, Olivier Mourgue's chaise longue. There have been undulating chaises, even for the outdoors, but Mourgue's is based on a unique construction process—steel tubing that supports rubber webbing and synthetic foam for comfort with a zippered two-way stretch fabric.

Pucci won an award for his colorful new towel designs. Joe Colombo's lamp—a sleek metal shade on a slim pole—earned an award. The other winner was a circular planter bench by Elsie Crawford, a pin-stripe vinyl wall covering, a window wall by the late Peter Muller-Munk, a fabric by Maija Isola of Finland.

Five of the 13 winning designs are European.

Olive Republican Club Holds Election

Election of officers took place at the annual meeting of the Olive Republican Club which was held Saturday, Jan. 13. Elected were John T. Molloy, president; Walter Lang, vice president; Charlotte Smith, secretary; August Hansen, treasurer; LeeRoy Crosswell, William Kassar and Al Giunditta, representatives for District 1, 2 and 3.

President Molloy announced that the annual installation of officers dinner and dance would be held Saturday, Feb. 10, at Olivebridge firehall. Guest speaker will be Peter Savago, chairman of Ulster County Legislature. LeeRoy Crosswell, dinner chairman, announced tickets were available from any of the officers.

Theatre Group Sets Casting

The theatre group, Ninety Miles off Broadway, will offer the comedy, "Barefoot in the Park" by Neil Simon as its April selection.

Pat Yaeger, director, has scheduled tryouts from 8 to 10 p. m. on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 1 and 2, in the all-purpose room at Duzire School in New Paltz. "I want competition for these roles," said Mrs. Yaeger. "No part will be cast until everyone interested has had an opportunity to read. I would love to see some new faces," explained Mrs. Yaeger.

Officers for the 1968 season include Bob Johnston, president; Elvira Bartsch, vice president; Joan Wood, secretary; Leonard Tantillo, treasurer.

It was noted at the recent annual dinner that the three major productions of last year were very successful. In addition the group had been in-

American Tradition In a Modern Design

By JACK McLENEY

House building has progressed far from the crude one-room living of early American history, but the tradition of family togetherness has never been lost in the evolution. There is something warm about the family room—the area of virtually all family activity but sleeping—that exercises strong appeal in these days of trend to the modern.

The designer pays tribute to this tradition today in a fine design called "The Linda", with the inclusion of a family activity area which will be the center of easy, comfortable living in the most of all the conveniences that are so much taken for granted. Today's feature is a true reflection of our early style of living to the massive brick fireplace in the living room, efficient "U" shaped kitchen, colonial designed space for meal service and the family room for relaxed activity completely independent of all the other accommodations that "The Linda" has to offer.

From such a hard core of flexible serviceability, this basic cape expands to epitomize what has become the rule rather than the exception, in modern cape design as we see it today.

Cedar shingles and brick veneer are used in combination as exterior finish for this home that contains 884 square feet of space on the first floor with an additional 244 square feet in the family room. Basic house dimensions are 34 by 26 feet, and the overall, including family room is 52 feet.

Complete working blueprints, with form specifications are available by use of the accompanying coupon.

Cottetkill

COTTEKILL—Due to sickness and the weather, there will be no service at the Cottetkill Reformed Church until Feb. 4. Since there has been no services during January, the service of Holy Communion will be observed Feb. 4. Sunday School classes will resume that date.

The Cottetkill Buttercup 4-H Club reports that on Jan. 5, they resumed meetings after the Christmas holidays. Jo Ann Hajek made a pumpkin pie in the cooking group and the sewing group resumed their work. On Jan. 9 JoAnn Hajek and Patricia Hajek baked tarts. Jan. 28, the club plans a skating party at Mr. and Mrs. John Basten's pond. Skating will be from 3 to 5 p. m. with refreshments.

Plans are being made for a penny social in the spring. The group also hopes to have another bake sale.

On Wednesday, Jan. 17, there was a meeting of representatives from all the Ladies' Auxiliaries of the fire companies of the Town of Marlborough. The meeting was to discuss ways and means of raising money for the Marlborough First Aid Unit.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bender stayed with Mrs. Mary Wilson while their apartment in High Falls was being fixed after the fire at Novies. They returned home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Everette Barringer of Red Hook, were callers in town last week, Friday.

Mrs. Oscar Beach is back at work at the Post Office, after a two weeks absence with the flu.

Mrs. Kathryn Winchell of Lake Mohonk is visiting Mrs. Arthur DePuy while she is having time off from her work.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thornton of Spring Glen called on Mr. and Mrs. John Keator Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Smith of Kerhonkson spent Saturday night with her sister, Mrs. Milton Upright.

Miss Susan Miller and her girl friend, Susan, of Norwich spent the weekend with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Osterhout. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Woody Osterhout and son spent the day with them.

Mrs. Judy Redmond and daughter, Sherry, are visiting her mother, Mrs. Agnes Miller. Mrs. Redmond resides at Camp LeJune, N. C., with her husband, Sgt. Michael Redmond. Janet Miller is home during intercession from Albany State University.

By JACK McEENEY

House building has progressed far from the crude one-room living of early American history, but the tradition of family togetherness has never been lost in the evolution. There is something warm about the family room—the area of virtually all family activity but sleeping—that exercises strong appeal in these days of trend to the modern.

The designer pays tribute to this tradition today in a fine design called "The Linda", with the inclusion of a family activity area which will be the center of easy, comfortable living in the most of all the conveniences that are so much taken for granted. Today's feature is a true reflection of our early style of living to the massive brick fireplace in the living room, efficient "U" shaped kitchen, colonial designed space for meal service and the family room for relaxed activity completely independent of all the other accommodations that "The Linda" has to offer.

From such a hard core of flexible serviceability, this basic cape expands to epitomize what has become the rule rather than the exception, in modern cape design as we see it today.

Cedar shingles and brick veneer are used in combination as exterior finish for this home that contains 884 square feet of space on the first floor with an additional 244 square feet in the family room. Basic house dimensions are 34 by 26 feet, and the overall, including family room is 52 feet.

RECORD FLIGHT: Premier pole vaulter Bob Seagren of the University of Southern California falls free as he sets new world indoor record of 17 feet 4 1/4 inches in Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden last night. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Likes It Indoors

Bob Seagren Vaults 17-4 1/4 for Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Forget about the wide open spaces, take back the wind in your face and the sun on your back, Bob Seagren likes it better indoors.

When the 21-year-old Southern California junior broke his own indoor pole vault record by topping 17-4 1/4 at the Millrose Games Thursday night it was the 11th time Seagren has done it; he's the only one.

"I prefer the indoors," he said with the joyful shouts of 14,088 fans still bouncing around Madison Square Garden. "The smoke doesn't bother me. It shouldn't affect anyone."

"Outdoors you have to worry about the rain and the wind in your face and a lot of things. Inside, you're closer to people. It's more fun."

Seagren's attitude is an unusual one since most track men dislike indoor meets with the smoky arenas and narrow, hard board tracks and runways.

Seagren set his record on his third and final try and then missed three times at 17-8, higher than he or anybody else has jumped indoors or out.

A highly regarded field of five sub-four-minute milers gave way to somebody who said he's not a miler at all, Preston Davis of the Army, who won his third straight indoor start at that distance, winning in 4:03.9.

Meet records popped up in several events. Larry James, a Villanova sophomore, clipped

Plan Varsity Track First Time at State

Thirty-nine State University College students attended a meeting this week designed to launch a varsity track and field team at New Paltz.

Coach Ed Bell, hired last summer by the college to coach cross country and track, called the meeting to determine the number of students interested in the sport.

The coach explained that State would organize a track club rather than a bonafide varsity in 1968. This is being done, he said, because the track facilities are not completely finished and the college wishes to save its ECAC fresh-

Kingston Hosts Port in DUSO Tonight

Two games ahead of the field, Kingston High seeks its 5th straight DUSO League victory and 10th overall in the Friday night feature at the Kate Walton field house.

Varsity game is scheduled at 8 p. m.

Coach Jack Gilligan expects to have A. J. (Andy) Murphy back in the lineup. Murphy missed the last game because of a thigh injury.

Murphy, the Gilligan brothers (Bruce and Ken) Ray Lindhorst and Ted Wood will make up the probable starting lineup, with Werner Kolln and Ed Byman as the front line reserves.

Newburgh, upended by Monticello earlier in the week, is in second place with a 3-2 record.

Old DUSO Favorite
The visit of the Port Jervis team brings back to Kingston one of the DUSO's all-time basketball greats in the role of coach.

Alex Osowick, who holds the all-time DUSO record of 66 points for a game, is making his debut as Port Jervis coach.

Osowick was All-DUSO as a Raider and unloaded that historic barrage against the Fallsburgh Central Cornets.

The Port star went on to play varsity ball at Manhattan College and captained the team in his senior year.

His first and only coaching assignment until he returned to his alma mater was at St. Croix in the Virgin Islands.

In Bad Straits

Port Jervis has been in bad straits in basketball for the past several years. People in that area feel Osowick can give basketball the lift it needs.

To date, it has been the same old Port Jervis team with an undistinguished 0-4 record but the Tri-Staters are looking to the future.

Coach Jack Gilligan and his boys are looking forward to another DUSO pennant and will make sure that Port's future starts some other time — not tonight.

KHS Swimmers Sink Newburgh, 57-38

CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Kingston High school's rapidly improving swimming varsity achieved two firsts in a dual meet at Newburgh Thursday:

(1) It reached the .500 plateau for the first time in its 4-year history.

(2) Scored its first victory ever over Newburgh, 57-38.

There were other sparkling accomplishments like four new KHS records and a few standard for the Newburgh pool in the 200-yard individual medley by Craig Murray, a double winner, in 2:30.1.

Other new Maroon marks were established by Andy Jones, 26 seconds flat in 30 yard freestyle, though finishing second; Dave Roberts, 1:14.3 in the 100 yard breaststroke and the spectacular 3:56.3 clocking the 400 yard freestyle relay by the local quartet of Pete Helmich, Bob Wells, Andy Jones and Charles Plunket.

Two Score Doubles
Doubles by Gene Gruner and Craig Murray paced Kingston's seven first place wins.

Roberts' record breaking performance in the 100 yard breast shaved two seconds off his own mark and clinched the victory for Kingston.

Kingston's superb 3:56.3 time in the 400 yard freestyle meant that each swimmer did 100 yards in less than a minute in the 25-yard, 4 lane pool at the Newburgh YMCA.

A sweep of the diving event put AFA ahead, 22-21, but Gruner's win in the 100 yard fly regained the lead 27-25 and the Maroon stayed ahead the rest of the way.

Turning point of the meet came in the 400 yard fly when Murray and Jack Brinnier finished 1-2 to break the back of a budding NFA rally and gave the Maroon a 42-37 edge.

Dave Roberts and Gary Schantz then put the meet out of NFA's reach with a 1-2 in the 100 yard breaststroke.

Mrs. Marshall Lipton Tops YMCA Distance Swim Event

Mrs. Marshall Lipton of Kingston is the current leader in the YMCA Distance Swim, having logged 14 miles to lead runnerup John Walsted by about a mile.

The contest consists of men and women jogging in the Y gym and swimming laps in the pool. At the end of the week the laps are converted into miles.

In the running department, Bill Barnes leads with an accumulated 24 miles. Other runners in the top standings are Dr. Lewis Neporent and Robert Piper.

76ers Greer Retains All Star Momentum

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hal Greer has picked up in the regular season where he left off in the National Basketball Association All-Star game, but not Zelmo Beaty. And that doesn't make Beaty unhappy at all.

Big Z, a flop in Tuesday's classic, looked quite a bit better Thursday night, pumping in a career high 42 points that carried the St. Louis Hawks to a 105-93 victory over Boston in Miami Beach.

Greer, voted the most valuable player in the All-Star game, continued his hot hand with 35 points and led Philadelphia to a 123-108 triumph over the slumping Detroit Pistons in Detroit.

In other games, the New York Knicks rode a long-range barrage by Cazzie Russell and Dick Barnett to a 126-118 victory over host Chicago. Elgin Baylor lifted Los Angeles past Cincinnati 118-115 in the last 10 seconds at Cleveland, and Baltimore tumbled San Diego 127-113 in San Diego.

In the American Basketball Association, Minnesota manhandled New Jersey 137-105, Dallas slipped by New Orleans 102-101

and Anaheim dipped Oakland 124-115.

Beaty, who managed only two field goals in 11 attempts in the All-Star game, fired in 16 of 24 and 10 of 11 free throws against the Celtics and held Bill Russell to only four free throws.

The big center saved the best for last after the Celtics had taken a 64-43 lead in the third quarter. He hit 11 points in that period as the Hawkstook the lead for good and then added 17, including 13 in less than six minutes, in the final session.

Greer, whose 14 straight points brought the East from behind to victory over the West in the All-Star game, paced the 76ers to a 68-53 halftime spread. When Detroit climbed within eight in the final quarter, his three points started a string of seven straight that took Philadelphia out of danger.

Sands and Shuster Rate High in SUNY

Ty Sands and Ed Shuster of State U. New Paltz are among the top scorers and rebounders in the State University of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC), according to latest statistics.

Sands with a two-game average of 27.0 is in second place behind scoring leader Greg Wilson of Oswego, who averaged 33 points in his first three outings.

Shuster, the 6 foot 5 senior from Havertown, Pa., who scored 31 points against Cortland is in ninth place with a 16.5 average.

Wilson of Oswego leads Shuster 22-21 in average rebound per game, with Sands in fifth place with a 12 average.

Bob Titus of Genesee boasts the best field goal average with 68.2 on 15 baskets in 22 tries. Sands is 12th with 43 per cent.

Buffalo State (4-0) paces the offense averages with 89 points and Oswego (3-0) has the best defense with a 69.3 yield per contest.

New Paltz will not be involved in SUNYAC action this week. The Hawks are at Quinipiac College, Conn., Saturday.

Five new tournaments

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Five new tournaments will be on the March to June tour of the 1968 Ladies PGA golf schedule.

They will be at Port Malabar, Fla., Boynton Beach, Fla., Winchester, Va., Atlanta and Indianapolis.

Coach Bell pointed out that under existing ECAC (Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference) rules freshmen cannot compete on the varsity level. However, if a new team is being formed, the college may request freshman eligibility for the first year of the team's existence.

State U., by designating its team as a track club can preserve its right for freshman eligibility until 1969.

Coach Bell also indicated that if conditions are satisfactory and sufficient talent is available he will take a relay team to the Penn Relays, the LeMoyne Relays and the Colleskill Invitational for freshmen.

76ers Greer Retains All Star Momentum

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hal Greer has picked up in the regular season where he left off in the National Basketball Association All-Star game, but not Zemo Beaty. And that doesn't make Beaty unhappy at all.

Big Z, a flop in Tuesday's classic, looked quite a bit better Thursday night, pumping in a career high 42 points that carried the St. Louis Hawks to a 105-93 victory over Boston in Miami Beach.

Greer, voted the most valuable player in the All-Star game, continued his hot hand with 35 points and led Philadelphia to a 123-108 triumph over the slumping Detroit Pistons in Detroit.

In other games, the New York Knicks rode a long-range barrage by Cazzie Russell and Dick Barnett to a 126-118 victory over host Chicago. Elgin Baylor lifted Los Angeles past Cincinnati 118-116 in the last 10 seconds at Cleveland, and Baltimore tumbled San Diego 127-113 in San Diego.

In the American Basketball Association, Minnesota manhandled New Jersey 137-105, Dallas slipped by New Orleans 102-101

190 points and 68 rebounds. In Hofstra's first nine games this season, Williams collected 133, Japan, 2.

Sands and Shuster Rate High in SUNY

Ty Sands and Ed Shuster of State U. New Paltz are among the top scorers and rebounders in the State University of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC), according to latest statistics.

Sands with a two-game average of 27.0 is in second place behind scoring leader Greg Wilson of Oswego, who averaged 33 points in his first three outings.

Shuster, the 6 foot 5 senior from Havertown, Pa., who scored 31 points against Cortland is in ninth place with a 16.5 average.

Wilson of Oswego leads Shuster 22-21 in average rebound per game, with Sands in fifth place with a 12 average. 84.2, behind Joe Topa of Potsdam, the leader with 90.9 and Wilson again with 90.4.

Bob Titus of Genesee boasts the best field goal average with 68.2 on 15 baskets in 22 tries. Sands is 12th with 43 per cent.

Buffalo State (4-0) paces the offense averages with 89 points and Oswego (3-0) has the best defense with a 69.3 yield per contest.

SITZ-MARKS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

The Battle of Rosendale is on! It takes only a scheduled ski jumping tournament at the historic village to remind us of the ageless struggle between man and the elements.

Saturday's Rosendale Trophy Jump and the Saturday-Sunday New York State Combined will go on because the hardy Northerners refuse to capitulate to an incredible streak of bad luck that has haunted them since ski jumping was revived at the Mt. Joppenberg hill.

Two years ago a January heat wave ruined their best laid plans. A year ago it was touch and go. It's the same story in 1968—but the show must go on and will thanks to these dauntless descendants of the Norsemen. What nature refuses to do, man-created machines will.

BELLEAYRE SKI CENTER reports greater traffic and public interest than ever before. Even the great cold spell of last week failed to diminish the enthusiasm of the thousands of schussnuts who invade the Catskill center every weekend.

Skiing was available throughout the cold snap except on the highest levels and the Belleayre staff, under the peerless direction of superintendent Gerald Buycie, has accepted every challenge of the weatherman.

"We worked on the trails in the morning and night," said Buycie. "Right now we have excellent snow conditions for the weekend."

How did Belleayre's volume compare to that of a year ago at the same stage of the season?

"Well, you know we got an early start with that fine Christmas storm," said Buycie. "And up to this point the interest and attendance has been the greatest in our history."

Belleayre is host every weekend to races of one kind or another, including giant slaloms. The New York Ski Council has its annual two-day competition Saturday and Sunday. Meanwhile, thousands of just ordinary skiers are expected to pour into the complex.

The Belleayre statistics prove what everyone suspected—skiing is here to stay.

HUNTER MOUNTAIN has resumed its popular weekly schedule of standard races each Thursday afternoon. Forerunners of the weekly events are Karl Plattner and Phil Rini, with the competing skiers receiving gold, silver or bronze pins depending on their expertise in negotiating the course.

Despite the fact that Mike Schwaiger, the "Hunter Flash" was disqualified in last week's third professional ski race, he still retains a respectable fifth place in the overall standings.

February 29 is the date for the races to be held at Hunter Mountain. It will be the crucial sixth in the seven race series.

LOCAL GIRL MAKES GOOD department: Frosty Goffredi of Kingston is climbing steadily to a berth on the New York State Junior team. A Class C racer, she is now No. 7 in the team ratings.

Miss Goffredi launched her bid for a place on the team on Dec. 17 when she placed 12th in a field of 28 hopefuls at Greek Peak.

Since then her success chart reads something like this: Jan. 7—8th at West Mountain slalom; Jan. 13—4th in Labrador Mountain slalom; Jan. 20—5th in Ellenville Mountain slalom; Jan. 21—4th in Ellenville Mountain slalom.

Frosty spends the next two days in Downhill competition at Gore Mountain, with the grand finale a weekend later at Lake Placid. The New York State Junior team will be selected at this 3-event race. The state team in turn will compete against other sections for the selection of an Eastern squad for the National competition.

LIKE THE 1968 automobiles, new ski fashions seem to be more streamlined than last year's. For both men and women this is the year of closer-to-the-body-clothes—parkas are longer and leaner and pants are slimmer and sleeker. The slopes these days look like the view in a kaleidoscope with colors whizzing in all directions.

With function as well as fashion in mind ski clothes have never been more coordinated.

Among the totally new looks to be seen on the slopes are the woman's ski tunic. Knitted into a shapely column of black and white stripes the tunic sweater is all wool and meant to be pulled over lean stretch pants.

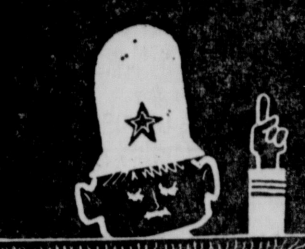

For skiers who want as much luxury as they do warmth fur parkas are now available in fox, wolf, skunk and even mink. There's bunny, too, if you don't mind taking a ribbing.

All signals are "go" for the opening ski jumps of the season Saturday and Sunday at Mt. Joppenberg Hill in the heart of Rosendale village.

Several of the country's finest sky riders who were not named to the 1968 Olympic squad will participate in the Rosendale Trophy Jump Saturday at 2 p. m.

Meanwhile, the annual New York State Combined Cross Country and Jumping events also take place Saturday at 10 a. m., with jumping at 2 p. m. Sunday.

A pair of 300-foot jumpers head the crack Class A field. Pete Mikkelsen of Wisconsin, 7th ranked nationally two years and Dana Zalunakos, both of whom have soared past the 300 foot mark have assured tournament director Bill Curran they will compete.

Other Big Names

Other big name stars include Per Coucheron, a Rosendale favorite, who captured the Eisenhower Trophy jump at Bear Mountain two weeks ago, and Roy Sherwood, former U. S. Olympian from Salisbury, Conn.

The nationally ranked Sherwood has never competed in a Rosendale event.

Bill Cantlin and Larry Gillis, who competed in the Iron Mountain (Mich.) Olympic trials are other "A" entries along with Roger Dion, Duke Schneider and Leif Bringsmark, the stone mason from Congers, N. Y.

Einar Wohlen, the Class B winner at Bear Mountain, is scheduled to compete in that class.

Conditions Excellent

Curran reported the jumping hill in excellent condition.

"We made some snow last night (Thursday)," he said, "but the overall conditions were good. The cold weather has preserved the snow and we only had to touch up the edges and put some new snow in the inrun."

"Conditions should be fast and we look for some excellent jumps," he added.

That Mystery Game Was Tuneup for BC

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was a mystery college basketball game Thursday night. Boston College beat Le-

Moyne, N.Y., 90-61 at Syracuse.

When the score came in there was a scurrying around in some sports departments. Boston College, slated to meet mighty

UCLA in New York Saturday night, did not have any game with LeMoyne listed in its pre-season schedule. Neither did

LeMoyne's list any Jan. 25 game with BC.

It developed that the game was arranged after the original

provided a nice warmup for the Bob Cousy-coached Eagles before their confrontation with

UCLA and famed Lew Alcindor.

A sellout crowd of 2,200 at the LeMoyne Athletic Center saw

Steve Adelman, with 18, and Terry Driscoll, with 17, combine

gles to their ninth victory in 13

starts.

The unbeaten Brown Indians

of St. Bonaventure, fifth-ranked in The Associated Press poll, made it 15 in a row by defeating St. Francis of Pennsylvania 74-58 at Olean, N.Y. Sophomore Bob Lanier led the Bonnies with 23 points and 23 rebounds.

No other team in the AP Top Ten saw action as the midyear exam lull continued to keep many teams idle.

Bill Schutsky's 37 points paced Army to a 75-69 victory over Manhattan for the sixth in a row for the West Points Cadets. Rich Travis got 35 point in leading Oklahoma City to a 92-90 overtime conquest of Arkansas.

In other home court triumphs, Iowa State downed Oklahoma 80-70, Jacksonville edged Citadel 63-59, Bradley humbled Memphis State 92-69, Fordham beat Rutgers 67-50, Kent State vanquished Tulane 93-73 and Seattle defeated Montana State 82-62.

On the road, Providence whipped Massachusetts 83-77 and Connecticut beat Vermont 85-59.

Other Big Names

Other big name stars include Per Coucheron, a Rosendale favorite, who captured the Eisenhower Trophy jump at Bear Mountain two weeks ago, and Roy Sherwood, former U. S. Olympian from Salisbury, Conn. The nationally ranked Sherwood has never competed in a Rosendale event.

Bill Cantlin and Larry Gillis, who competed in the Iron Mountain (Mich.) Olympic trials are other "A" entries, along with Roger Dion, Duke Schneider and Leif Bringslimark, the stone mason from Congers, N. Y.

Einar Wohlen, the Class B winner at Bear Mountain, is scheduled to compete in that class.

Conditions Excellent

Curran reported the jumping hill in excellent condition.

"We made some snow last night (Thursday)," he said, "but the overall conditions were good. The cold weather has preserved the snow and we only had to touch up the edges and put some new snow in the inrun."

"Conditions should be fast and we look for some excellent jumps," he added.

CLAIR BEE

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Clair Bee, athletic director at New York Military Academy, Cornwall-on-Hudson, N.Y., is one of four new members of Springfield College's Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame.

Bee was chosen Thursday along with Howard Cann, retired New York University coach, Amory (Slat) Gill, former Oregon State Coach, and Alvin (Doggie) Julian, who coached at Holy Cross and Dartmouth as well as piloting the Boston Celtics professional basketball team.

Gill died in 1966 and Julian in 1967. Bee spent most of his coaching career with Long Island University. He has written 46 books on basketball.

That Mystery Game Was Tuneup for BC

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was a mystery college basketball game Thursday night. Boston College beat Le-

Moyné, N.Y., 90-61 at Syracuse. When the score came in there was a scurrying around in some sports departments. Boston College, slated to meet mighty UCLA in New York Saturday night, did not have any game with LeMoyné listed in its pre-season schedule. Neither did LeMoyné's list any Jan. 25 game with BC.

It developed that the game was arranged after the original schedules had been published. It provided a nice warmup for the Bob Cousy-coached Eagles before their confrontation with UCLA and famed Lew Alcindor. A sellout crowd of 2,200 at the LeMoyné Athletic Center saw Steve Adelman, with 18, and Terry Driscoll, with 17, combine for 35 points in leading the Eagles to their ninth victory in 13 starts.

The unbeaten Brown Indians

of St. Bonaventure, fifth-ranked in The Associated Press poll, made it 15 in a row by defeating St. Francis of Pennsylvania 74-58 at Olean, N.Y. Sophomore Bob Lanier led the Bonnies with 23 points and 23 rebounds.

No other team in the AP Top Ten saw action as the midyear exam lull continued to keep many teams idle.

Bill Schutsky's 37 points paced Army to a 75-69 victory over Manhattan for the sixth in a row for the West Points Cadets. Rich Travis got 35 point in leading Oklahoma City to a 92-90 overtime conquest of Arkansas.

In other home court triumphs, Iowa State downed Oklahoma 80-70, Jacksonville edged Citadel 63-59. Bradley humbled Memphis State 92-69. Fordham beat Rutgers 67-50. Kent State vanquished Tulane 93-73 and Seattle defeated Montana State 92-82.

On the road, Providence whipped Massachusetts 83-77 and Connecticut beat Vermont 85-59.

Hurley Dimes Returns Good

Hurley Town chairman, Ernest C. Myer, reported today that returns are being mailed to the Town Chairmen indicating an encouraging response to the March of Dimes.

He requested that those wishing to contribute should forward their contributions during January. The return card system will be the only method of collecting in Hurley.

The chairmen in the township are Mrs. Preisendorfer, Glenford; Mrs. Ronald Every, West Hurley and Ernest C. Myer, Hurley.

Dear Abby

Sometimes Better 2d Time

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Am I a dope to accept an engagement ring from a guy who admitted it was the same diamond he gave a girl three years ago? I didn't ask him any questions because I never knew him when he was engaged to her and I figured it wasn't any of my business. Right? Well, a very good friend of George's said she thought I was a dope for accepting a second-hand engagement ring, but Abby, he had the diamond reset, so it's not like it was the same ring. Do you think I was a dope?

ENGAGED

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars —

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1968

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Recent acquisition of responsibility may result in pressure. Know this. Pace yourself. Stick with experience, the tried-and-true. Avoid radical departures.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Good lunar aspect today coincides with chance to plan journey, publication program or advertising campaign. Look ahead. Make reservations. Get information about club, organization.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Best not to mix business and pleasure. A friend could counsel otherwise. Choice is up to you. Set policy. Arrive at decisions and stick to them. Be conservative with money.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Circumstances seem to take over, changing today's plans. Means ride with the tide. Don't feel there is but one path, method. Permit mate, partner to take initiative.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent the subtle. Be diplomatic. Don't force issues. Stay on even course. Avoid extremes. Remember resolutions concerning health, exercise, recreation. Be sensible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your desires may conflict with what you can afford in cash. Day features romance, creative stimulation. Avoid extravagance. Those who really care want you, not money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Check property claims, prices. Aim toward security. Let others go for the get-rich-quick angle. Conservative course is best for your purpose today. React accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on short journey, ideas, unusual messages. Plan work program. Streamline methods. Eliminate procedure that is annoying and costly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Overcome temptation to move too far, too fast. Keep eye on possessions. Minor error proves costly. But you can avoid major mistake. Learn from experience. Pull in money reins.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Cycle is high—but older individual may attempt to block ambitions. Work out agreement. Make reasonable concession. Don't fight city hall. Message clear by tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Best to complete rather than begin projects. Fine evening for creative entertainment. Good for attending theater, dining out. Be with people who stimulate you. Avoid those who complain.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Don't permit one of little faith to dampen your spirits. Day to fulfill hopes, wishes. Be creative, independent and original. Invest in your own talents.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are progressive looking forward rather than backward. You are attracted to medicine and attract people with problems. Time to outline goals, to find out where you want to go and take steps toward achieving goal.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for CAPRICORN, AQUARIUS. Special word to observer: You gain today through brain rather than brawn.

DEAR ENGAGED: No. If George can feel two birds (chicks, that is) with one stone, there's no harm done. (P.S. Keep your eye on that "good friend" of George's who thought you were "a dope"—just to make sure she doesn't take you for one.)

DEAR ABBY: If this letter makes sense, it will be a miracle because right now I am so nervous I can hardly think. Yesterday I came home and found my 15-year-old son putting on his make-up! He had lipstick on his lips, eye shadow on his lids, and he was putting on mascara. He acted embarrassed when he saw me, but he didn't run and hide. All he said was, "I just wanted to see how I'd look."

He was wearing his regular clothes, but he had his shoes and socks off, and later I found my high-heeled slippers under his bed. I can't understand things like this, Abby. What does it all mean? We have three other children and they are normal. I can't tell my husband. It would kill him for sure. I am worried sick and don't know what to do.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think girls with glasses can be as attractive as girls without them? FOUR-EYES

DEAR FOUR: That depends on their frames.

DEAR ABBY: I have been drawing social security for two years now, and my wife will be eligible for hers in the near future. My problem is she doesn't want to accept hers. She says the government is billions of dollars in debt and they need the money worse than she does. It is true, we could live without her social security, but it would come in handy, and since she is entitled to it, I can't see any reason why she doesn't take it. How can I persuade her to take it?

SOCIALLY SECURE DEAR SECURE: She is certainly entitled to it since it is the "kitty" into which both she and her employer have been contributing for many years. Tell her to give it to charity if she doesn't want to keep it.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius
Trade Mark Reg.

Mrs.—It's a bottle of hair-tonic, dear.

Mr.—Oh, that's very nice of you, darling.

Mrs.—Yes, I want you to give it to your secretary at the office. Her hair is coming out rather badly on your coat.

Coming home one Sunday afternoon with a string of trout, Johnnie was suddenly confronted by the local minister. There was no way to escape, but the boy rose to the occasion. Going up to the minister, he said:

Johnnie—Minister, d'y'e see what the trout got for nabbin' worms on Sunday?

There aren't rules for success that work unless you do.

A large corporation had the following printed on its salary receipt forms:

"Your salary is your personal business, and should not be disclosed to any one."

The new employee, in signing the receipt, added: "I won't mention it to anybody. I'm just as much ashamed of it as you are."

Patient (at lunatic asylum)—We like you better than the last doctor.

New Doctor (flattered)—How is that?

Patient—You seem more like one of us.

"Brethren," said the pastor, "because of distractions of which you may be aware, I have been unable to compose any sermon to deliver to you this evening. I shall have only to say to you what the Lord will put in my mouth. But next Sunday, I trust to come better provided."

Zeb—He makes money hand over fist.

Zek—Capitalist?

Zeb—Naw, pugilist.

Some horse-racing fans were arguing with some baseball fans about the relative attractions of the two sports as seen on TV. "One thing we have over you," a horse player said. "At least we don't have to watch a horse shaving."

Film Magnet (entering studio)—Who's that?

Director—Why, that's Napoleon.

Film Magnet—Why did you get such a little man to play such an important part?

Men who never change their minds love themselves more than they love truth.

The difference between a statesman and a politician is that a statesman thinks he belongs to the state and the politician thinks the state belongs to him.

If you are not popular and wonder why, imagine yourself being entertained as you entertain others.

Middle age is that perplexing time of life when we hear two voices calling us, one saying, "Why not?" and the other, "Why bother?"

Peggy — Why is a railroad track a particularly sentimental object?

Betty—Because it is bound by close ties.

Mr. Brown (a traveler told a man on the train)—I just got out of prison this morning. It's going to be tough, facing old friends.

Mr. Black—I can sympathize with you. I'm just getting home from the State Legislature.

Mrs. Jones — Did you meet your son at the station?

Mrs. Smith—Oh, my gracious no! I've known him for years.

Wilbur—When is a glass of milk sad?

Ted—I give up.

Wilbur—When it's upset!

A preacher walked into a saloon, ordered milk and by mistake was served a milk punch.

After drinking it, the holy man lifted his eyes to heaven and was heard to say:

Rev. Bass—O Lord, what a cow!

A secret is something you haven't told yet.

Lloyd—I saw a psychiatrist today about my memory lapses.

Floyd—Oh, really? What did he do?

Lloyd—He said I'd have to pay my bill in advance.

The Viewers Talking Again

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The single thing that has been troubling television executives for the past few seasons—troubling them more than bad ratings—has been the fact that people seem to have stopped talking much about television.

The viewers groan a lot and say that days go by when they don't even bother to turn on the darned set—and one suspects that they exaggerate. But television's current offerings just don't seem to bring on the violent reactions of those good old days.

But during the past week television has—somewhat unexpectedly—moved back into the mainstream of viewers' conversation.

'Laugh-In' Helps

On Monday night the premier of NBC's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," a midseason replacement, arrived with a pace and verve that was stimulating. It took some impudent funny sideswipes on subjects ranging from government policy and Charles de Gaulle to rock 'n' roll and pot. And the networks, which have been afflicted with a desire to please all the people all of the time, have suddenly decided that controversial material isn't all bad.

The day after the premiere show viewers talked, with delight, about seeing a really funny show.

The television debut of Lee Bouvier on Wednesday night also caused excited ripples on a TV lake too long placid. Her first starring vehicle drew some deadly critical shafts, but the audience turned out to see the show.

A preliminary count by A. C. Nielsen, the audience research company found that in the New York metropolitan area alone, "Laura" had as many viewers as the other two network stations combined.

The only thing now to fear is that controversy and satire may suddenly become very popular and like other TV fads run its course fast. And also that off-beat casting to attract audiences will become more important than the kind of plays presented.

Schedule Time

All three networks are now in the throes of drawing up schedules for next season.

CBS, which in the past couple of seasons has been the first to announce its plans for the next September, plans so few changes that there are really no cliffhangers.

It is likely that Doris Day's new half-hour situation comedy series will replace "Good Morning World" on Tuesday nights, and that a 90-minute whodunit action series, "Hawaii-Five-O" will take over Thursday night's "Cimarron Strip." CBS is expected to have only one other time spot left to fill, probably the half hour now occupied by "He and She" on Wednesdays.

Some on Way Out

NBC has announced "The Name of the Game" as a 90-minute action series for Friday nights next fall. "Star Trek" is now given a 50-50 chance for survival, although in a new time period if it makes it, NBC programs believed to be candidates for oblivion include "I Dream of Jeannie," "The Danny Thomas Hour" and, almost certainly, either "I Spy" or "Run for Your Life."

Recommended tonight: "Flesh and Blood," NBC, 8:30-10:30 P.M. original drama by William Hanley starring Edmond O'Brien, Kim Stanley, E. G. Marshall and Suzanne Pleshette.

North Korean Premier Pictured As Sure of New Conflict With U.S.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A former general in the Soviet Army, drilled by the Kremlin in how to communicate North Korea, now occupies the spotlight in a tense crisis which conceivably could bring his Russian mentors into confrontation with the United States.

Kim Il Sung, premier of North Korea, is described by those who knew him in the old days as a man who never had an original thought. His thoughts today may not be original, but if a pro-Communist writer's reports about them are true, he is convinced that a new war with the United States is all but inevitable.

All Blame on U.S.

The writer is Wilfred Burchett, an Australian who for two decades has reported from Communist capitals and war fronts and who often echoes the hardest of Communist lines. Burchett describes the views of Kim and other North Korean leaders in a book, "Against Korea," to be published by International Publishers of New York. It is written wholly from the Communist viewpoint and places on the United States all the blame for tension in the Korean peninsula.

The way Burchett puts it, the North Korean leaders are convinced that for 18 years the United States has been plotting war against them, and they fully expect another round of Korean conflict.

Premier Kim, a roly-poly man of 56 who has been a Communist since his boyhood, is pictured as gloriously emphasizing that "things may be destroyed again" in North Korea, 15 years after the end of the Korean conflict of 1950-53.

Kim's representative on the Military Armistice Commission, Maj. Gen. Pak Chung Kook, is represented as feeling that there is "overwhelming evidence" that the United States is intent on launching a new war. Burchett links rising tension to President Johnson's visit to South Korea in October 1966, comparing it with the 1950 visit by John Foster Dulles, then a State Department consultant, which the Communists insist was a prelude to carrying out plans for hostilities. Burchett claims that American strategy "seems aimed at building up incidents" to a point where North Koreans take countermeasures. Thereupon, he says, both the United States and Japan would go to war against North Korea. Japan once ruled Korea.

Predictions Before

Burchett more than once has been able to predict Communist actions. He visited Premier Kim and other North Korean leaders in 1967, and thus the indication is that they were thinking long ago in terms of the inevitability of a resumed Korean war.

One important question is this: is the present taunting of the American eagle Kim's own idea? Did inspiration or encouragement come from the outside, and if so, from what source?

Despite Kim's reputation for lack of originality, this phase of the tension perhaps can be attributed to North Korean initiative. The Communists there have been keeping the Red Chinese at arm's length, and not long ago also indicated some independence from Moscow. The North Korean leaders seemed to have been annoyed with Moscow for not showing more belligerence toward the Americans in Asia.

Kim Il Sung may have been happier in the Stalin era, when he cut his political teeth. He studied in Moscow before World War II, joined a North Korean unit fighting beside the Russians against the Germans, and emerged as a major general in the Soviet Army.

Intelligence sources in Korea long ago pegged Kim as hand-picked by Moscow to take over all Korea for communism. Under the protection of Soviet occupation troops, he was installed in Pyongyang in 1945, bearing the title of a North Korean marshal.

His real name is Kim Jung Su. Kim Il Sung is the name of a Korean hero-martyr who fought in the anti-Japanese underground and who, had he lived, would be close to 100 years old today.

Only Routine Stuff

Koreans Struck Out on Pueblo

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The intelligence ship Pueblo's crew blew up the vessel's secret coding machine and the North Koreans apparently got "nothing that really compromises us," say Navy sources.

These sources said there was evidence of this in the messages from the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher. Except for the coding machine, the Navy sources said Thursday the rest of the Pueblo's gear was "routine stuff," including tape recorders to store such intercepted data as radio messages.

Much Concern

Ever since the Pueblo was captured by four North Korean patrol boats near midnight Monday, there has been public concern the Communists might have bagged important equipment which could have told the enemy much about this country's intelligence gathering know-how.

The Pentagon has said messages from Bucher, before his radio went dead, indicated he and his men had started to destroy secret gear to keep it out of North Korean hands. But the Defense Department has not said how successful Bucher was.

New reports circulated to the effect that four crewmen were wounded in the explosions that were set off to blow up the Pueblo's sensitive equipment.

But Navy sources restated it is still uncertain how the four men were hurt. The messages did not say they insisted.

"The wounds could have happened either way—from gunfire or their own charges blowing up the equipment," one source said.

ders to avoid a fight and to keep his ship's machine guns sheathed under canvas.

"She was supposed to present the appearance of being a non-combatant," said one senior officer.

The Defense Department has refused to discuss the standing instructions the vessel's skipper took with him on his patrol of about two weeks, except to say Bucher did not ask for special instructions after he was challenged by North Korean patrol boats Monday night.

The Navy sources said Bucher's orders called for him to move out of an area if harassed and to avoid firing his guns.

The aim was to sidestep an international incident. It was indicated that such orders are handed out to the captains of all U.S. intelligence-gathering ships.

Navy officers said the Pueblo did try to get under way after being besieged by the patrol craft.

Move Toward Open Water

"He made a move toward open water, but he couldn't go more than a few yards because they surrounded him and he had to cut his engines," one officer said.

These sources spoke from a knowledge of messages which went from the Pueblo to higher command during the Pueblo's ordeal.

The Pueblo's crew did not have time to scuttle her, the Navy sources said. They explained that scuttling would have required the rigging of explosive charges below decks.

Opening the ship's valves to admit seawater would not have been enough, they said.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN—Endorsement of The Freeman's participation in an intensive Ulster County safety campaign took place Thursday by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. On hand for the endorsement were (L) Sol Weber, manager of the campaign; S. James Matthews, president of the Chamber and Peter O. Allen, Chamber director. Highlights will be the awarding of $2,000 in Savings Bonds to winners of a student essay contest. Safety pages designed to educate the public on vital safety information will appear in The Freeman and recruitment of business concerns as sponsors is underway. (Freeman photo by Kruh.)

Near Crash Site

Find H-Bomb Pieces

By JOSEPH P. MOHBAAT
Associated Press Writer

THULE AIR BASE, Greenland (AP)—The U. S. Air Force found hydrogen bomb fragments Thursday around the spot where a B52 bomber crashed and burned on thick ice near this Arctic Circle base.

But the Air Force doesn't know whether the rest of the four bombs aboard the big Strategic Air Command jet are buried in the snow and ice or at the bottom of North Star Bay under about 800 feet of water. Maj. Gen. Richard O. Hunziker told a news conference.

Not Moving It

All the debris is being left "right where it is," said Hunziker, "because right now I have control of the contamination and I don't want to let it get away from me."

He added that it had not been decided whether to search deeper for the rest of the bombs.

The plane crashed Sunday on a nine-foot thick blanket of ice covering North Star Bay near Thule base. The flame-scoured area and fragments of the plane indicate that the B52 may have exploded on impact.

One crewman perished in the crash. Six others parachuted to safety. One of them, Capt. Frank F. Hopkins, has been returned to Andrews Air Force Base, Md., suffering a broken arm and a minor frost bite.

"I have positive evidence the weapons are around the scar" where the plane crashed, Hunziker said.

But Not Dangerous

But while "every piece of debris we found was contaminated," by the device's radioactive contents, Hunziker said, "based on the information we now have, this does not present a dangerous situation to anyone."

Hunziker said he does not know what percentage of the thermonuclear devices aboard the plane has been found.

Hunziker said the bombs apparently were on board the huge aircraft not thrown from it when it plunged into the ice. He displayed a photograph of what he called the plane's impact area and a long, black scar on the ice where the plane slid for several hundred yards, spewing fuel and burning.

Hunziker, a SAC officer, is directing identification and recovery efforts by some 40 men in the near-total darkness of the crash area. Two helicopters and eskimo-drawn dog sleds are ferrying technicians to the scene. Air Force efforts are being hampered by dark and cold.

Newsman who arrived at Thule Thursday are to be flown over the site.

A deep blue twilight hangs over Thule for about two hours around noon and the rest of the day is black as night. Flashlight batteries wear out in 15 minutes. Hunziker said he is ordering more helicopters and trying to provide electric power to the recovery area.

Found on Top of Snow

He said the contaminated area is more than 300 yards wide around the impact point. The debris he identified as portions of H-bombs, were found on top of two feet of snow.

A noted expert on the effects of radiation, Dr. Wright Langham of UCLA Los Alamos Laboratory, flew to Thule Thursday and told newsmen that on the basis of early information: "I am fairly convinced that the plutonium is fixed," in other words, confined to the contaminated objects themselves and not radiating deadly rays into surrounding air.

Clifford told a Senate Armed Services Committee, which approved his nomination, that he did not expect the enemy to halt entirely its military activity during any bombing pause.

"Their military activity will continue in South Vietnam, I assume, until there is a cease-fire agreed upon," he said. "I assume that they will continue to transport the normal amount of goods, munitions and men to South Vietnam."

He also told the committee, "I assume we will continue to maintain our forces and support our forces during that period."

Johnson has set basic U.S. policy as a willingness to halt the bombing if there was a chance "productive" peace talks would begin promptly and the enemy did not "take advantage of our restraint as they have in the past."

The condition of not taking advantage was widely interpreted, but never spelled out officially, as including an end to any infiltration of South Vietnam.

In Clifford's stated view, not taking advantage would mean not increasing military activity over present levels.

He said that outlook is consistent with Johnson's policy.

Demanding an end to the infiltration, sources backing Clifford's outlook said, would be the same as asking North Vietnam to allow its troops in the South "to die on the vine."

Such a condition would be totally unrealistic and sure to be rejected out of hand by Hanoi, the sources said.

While offering his views on what a bombing pause would involve, Clifford nevertheless said repeatedly under committee questioning that he was against a pause now.

He said he saw no sign Hanoi was ready to meet the condition of not taking advantage.

Fire Damages Kitchen Area

Centerville fire units responded to an alarm with three trucks shortly after 3:30 p. m. Thursday after fire was discovered in the home of William Richter in High Woods.

Assistant Chief Thomas Brennan was in command of firefighters at the scene. He said Mrs. Richter discovered the fire in the kitchen area, and fled without incident with her infant after summoning firemen.

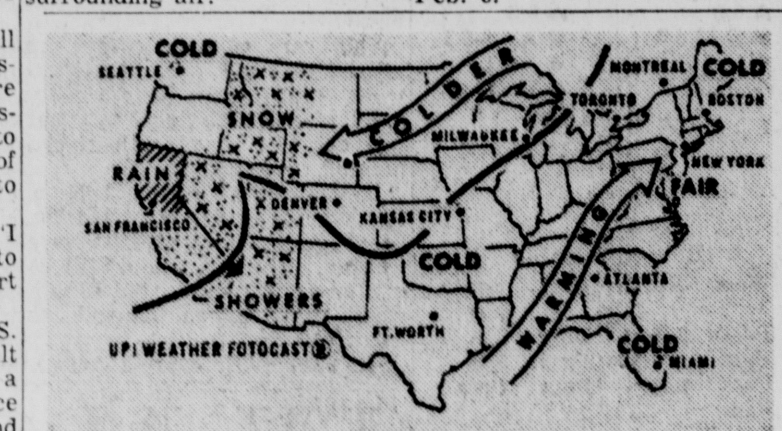

The flames heavily damaged a wall and the ceiling of the kitchen and considerable smoke and heat damage was reported throughout the one-story brick-veneer residence. Brennan said little water damage resulted.

Deputy Chief Brennan joined Chief Edward Ricks in praising the work of the volunteer firefighters. "They did a fine job and made a good stop," the fire officials said.

Cars Collide

Cars operated by Elisa Pace of Ulster Park, and Benedetto Grosso of Connelly, were involved in a collision early Thursday night on Route 9W in Port Jervis, according to Highland State Police.

Trooper J. F. Czaplinski said Grosso sustained facial cuts and was charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated by Trooper Robert Whalen. Grosso was released pending a hearing in Esopus Town Court on Feb. 8.

For Period Ending 7 A.M. EST Saturday

Cloudiness and widespread precipitation will prevail over much of the Western third of the nation, with snow in the Intermountain Region. Rain or showers are expected in California and Southern Arizona. Fair to partly cloudy skies should prevail elsewhere. A warming trend is forecast to overspread much of the East and South from Texas to Georgia and North to New England. Colder air is slated to move into the Northern and central Plains states and the upper Great Lakes Region. Little temperature change elsewhere. Minimum readings include: Atlanta 32; Boston 17; Chicago 27; Cleveland 26; Denver 23; Duluth 4; Great Falls 5; Jacksonville 35; Los Angeles 50; Miami 45; New York 17; San Francisco 50; Seattle 35; St. Louis 41; and Washington 17.

North Korean Premier Pictured As Sure of New Conflict With U.S.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A former general in the Soviet Army, drilled by the Kremlin in how to communize North Korea, now occupies the spotlight in a tense crisis which conceivably could bring his Russian mentors into confrontation with the United States.

Kim Il Sung, premier of North Korea, is described by those who knew him in the old days as a man who never had an original thought. His thoughts today may not be original, but if a pro-Communist writer's reports about them are true, he is convinced that a new war with the United States is all but inevitable.

All Blame on U.S.

The writer is Wilfred Burchett, an Australian who for two decades has reported from Communist capitals and war fronts and who often echoes the hardest of Communist lines. Burchett describes the views of Kim and other North Korean leaders in a book, "Against Korea," to be published by International Publishers of New York. It is written wholly from the Communist viewpoint and places on the United States all the blame for tension in the Korean peninsula.

The way Burchett puts it, the North Korean leaders are convinced that for 18 years the United States has been plotting war against them, and they fully expect another round of Korean conflict.

Premier Kim, a roly-poly man of 56 who has been a Communist since his boyhood, is pictured as gloomily emphasizing that "things may be destroyed again" in North Korea, 15 years after the end of the Korean conflict of 1950-53.

Kim's representative on the Military Armistice Commission, Maj. Gen. Pak Chung Kook, is represented as feeling that there is "overwhelming evidence" that the United States is intent on launching a new war.

Burchett links rising tension to President Johnson's visit to South Korea in October 1966, comparing it with the 1950 visit by John Foster Dulles, then a State Department consultant, which the Communists insist was a prelude to carrying out plans for hostilities. Burchett claims that American strategy "seems aimed at building up incidents" to a point where North Koreans take countermeasures. Thereupon, he says, both the United States and Japan would go to war against North Korea. Japan once ruled Korea.

Predictions before

Burchett more than once has been able to predict Communist actions. He visited Premier Kim and other North Korean leaders in 1967, and thus the indication is that they were thinking long ago in terms of the inevitability of a resumed Korean war.

One important question is this: Is the present taunting of the American eagle Kim's own idea? Did inspiration or encouragement come from the outside, and if so, from what source?

Despite Kim's reputation for lack of originality, this phase of the tension perhaps can be attributed to North Korean initiative. The Communists there have been keeping the Red Chinese at arm's length, and not long ago also indicated some independence from Moscow. The North Korean leaders seemed to have been annoyed with Moscow for not showing more belligerence toward the Americans in Asia.

Kim Il Sung may have been happier in the Stalin era, when he cut his political teeth. He studied in Moscow before World War II, joined a North Korean unit fighting beside the Russians against the Germans, and emerged as a major general in the Soviet Army.

Intelligence sources in Korea long ago pegged Kim as hand-picked by Moscow to take over all Korea for communism. Under the protection of Soviet occupation troops, he was installed in Pyongyang in 1945, bearing the title of a North Korean marshal.

His real name is Kim Jung Su. Kim Il Sung is the name of a Korean hero-martyr who fought in the anti-Japanese underground and who, had he lived, would be close to 100 years old today.

'Only Routine Stuff'

Koreans Struck Out on Pueblo

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The intelligence ship Pueblo's crew blew up the vessel's secret coding machine and the North Koreans apparently got "nothing that really compromises us," say Navy sources.

These sources said there was evidence of this in the messages from the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher.

Except for the coding machine, the Navy sources said Thursday the rest of the Pueblo's gear was "routine stuff," including tape recorders to store such intercepted data as radio messages.

Much Concern

Ever since the Pueblo was captured by four North Korean patrol boats near midnight Monday, there has been public concern the Communists might have bagged important equipment which could have told the enemy much about this country's intelligence gathering know-how.

The Pentagon has said messages from Bucher, before his radio went dead, indicated he and his men had started to destroy secret gear to keep it out of North Korean hands. But the Defense Department has not said how successful Bucher was.

New reports circulated to the effect that four crewmen were wounded in the explosions that were set off to blow up the Pueblo's sensitive equipment.

But Navy sources restated it is still uncertain how the four men were hurt. The messages did not say, they insisted.

The sources said there is some evidence that the North Koreans fired at the Pueblo with their 40-millimeter guns before boarding.

"The wounds could have happened either way—from gunfire or their own charges blowing up the equipment," one source said.

The Navy sources disclosed at the same time that the Pueblo's skipper was under standing orders to avoid a fight and to keep his ship's machine guns sheathed under canvas.

"She was supposed to present the appearance of being a non-combatant," said one senior officer.

The Defense Department has refused to discuss the standing instructions the vessel's skipper took with him on his patrol of about two weeks, except to say Bucher did not ask for special instructions after he was challenged by North Korean patrol boats Monday night.

The Navy sources said Bucher's orders called for him to move out of an area if harassed and to avoid firing his guns.

The aim was to sidestep an international incident. It was indicated that such orders are handed out to the captains of all U.S. intelligence-gathering ships.

Navy officers said the Pueblo did try to get under way after being besieged by the patrol craft.

Move Toward Open Water

"He made a move toward open water, but he couldn't go more than a few yards because they surrounded him and he had to cut his engines," one officer said.

These sources spoke from a knowledge of messages which went from the Pueblo to higher command during the Pueblo's ordeal.

The Pueblo's crew did not have time to scuttle her, the Navy sources said. They explained that scuttling would have required the rigging of explosive charges below decks.

Opening the ship's valves to admit seawater would not have been enough, they said.

Near Crash Site

Find H-Bomb Pieces

By JOSEPH P. MOHBAT
... Associated Press Writer ...

THULE AIR BASE, Greenland (AP)—The U. S. Air Force found hydrogen bomb fragments Thursday around the spot where a B52 bomber crashed and burned on thick ice near this Arctic Circle base.

But the Air Force doesn't know whether the rest of the four bombs aboard the big Strategic Air Command jet are buried in the snow and ice or at

Not Moving It

All the debris is being left "right where it is," said Hunziker, "because right now I have control of the contamination and I don't want to let it get away from me."

He added that it had not been decided whether to search deeper for the rest of the bombs.

The plane crashed Sunday on a nine-foot thick blanket of ice covering North Star Bay near Thule base. The flame-scorched area and fragments of the plane indicate that the B52 may have exploded on impact.

One crewman perished in the crash. Six others parachuted to safety. One of them, Capt. Frank F. Hopkins, has been returned to Andrews Air Force Base, Md., suffering a broken arm and a minor frost bite.

"I have positive evidence the weapons are around the scar" where the plane crashed, Hunziker said.

But Not Dangerous

But while "every piece of debris we found was contaminated," by the device's radioactive contents, Hunziker said, "based on the information we now have, this does not present a dangerous situation to anyone."

Hunziker said he does not know what percentage of the thermonuclear devices aboard the plane has been found.

Hunziker said the bombs apparently were on board the huge aircraft not thrown from it when it plunged into the ice. He displayed a photograph of what he called the plane's impact area and a long, black scar on the ice where the plane slid for several hundred yards, spewing fuel and burning.

Hunziker, a SAC officer, is directing identification and recovery efforts by some 40 men in the near-total darkness of the crash area. Two helicopters and eskimo-driven dog sleds are ferrying technicians to the scene. Air Force efforts are being hampered by dark and cold.

Newsman who arrived at Thule Thursday are to be flown over the site.

A deep blue twilight hangs over Thule for about two hours around noon and the rest of the day is black as night. Flashlight batteries wear out in 15 minutes. Hunziker said he is ordering more helicopters and trying to provide electric power to the recovery area.

Found on Top of Snow

He said the contaminated area is more than 300 yards wide around the impact point. The debris he identified as portions of H-bombs, were found on top of two feet of snow.

A noted expert on the effects of radiation, Dr. Wright Langham of UCLA Los Alamos Laboratory, flew to Thule Thursday and told newsmen that on the basis of early information: "I am fairly convinced that the plutonium is fixed," in other words, confined to the contaminated objects themselves and not radiating deadly rays into surrounding air.

He also told the committee, "I assume we will continue to maintain our forces and support our forces during that period."

Johnson has set basic U.S. policy as a willingness to halt the bombing if there was a chance "productive" peace talks would begin promptly and the enemy did not "take advantage of our restraint as they have in the past."

The condition of not taking advantage was widely interpreted, but never spelled out officially, as including an end to any infiltration of South Vietnam.

In Clifford's stated view, not taking advantage would mean not increasing military activity over present levels.

He said that outlook is consistent with Johnson's policy.

Demanding an end to the infiltration, sources backing Clifford's outlook said, would be the same as asking North Vietnam to allow its troops in the South "to die on the vine."

Such a condition would be totally unrealistic and sure to be rejected out of hand by Hanoi, the sources said.

While offering his views on what a bombing pause would involve, Clifford nevertheless said repeatedly under committee questioning that he was against a pause now.

He said he saw no sign Hanoi was ready to meet the condition of not taking advantage.
